Town Topics Opens Annual Appeal; Past Help Has Proved Invaluable

"I never could have made it without the kind of help I got."

Rita smiled shyly as she looked around her tidy new little apartment, recalling the other, one-room apartment with its family of roaches and the overflowing toilet ... and the stack of bills her husband had left behind him when he deserted her.

For Rita and her toddler son, life has a new beginning. The boost into that new life came from the generous Princeton people who give each year to the TOWN TOPICS Christmas Appeal.

Now 30 Years Old. Every year for the past 30 years, TOWN TOPICS has made a single appeal for money to help the Ritas of this community. The Appeal originally came from the warm, Irish heart of Dan D. Coyle, a founding publisher of TOWN TOPICS. It was he who made the appeal each year in these columns, and since his death in 1973, TOWN TOPICS has dedicated its Christmas appeal to his memory.

The dollar earned by a school kid, the five dollars that may represent a necessary part of family income, the hundred-dollar check that can do a great deal – all of these have come at this holiday season from the "giving" men, women and children of the Princeton area.

Money is used by the Family Service Agency at its discretion to help people who are in need. Over the years, society has changed its philosophy of help for the needy. The "basket charity," in which a nice plump turkey for the family and roller-skates for the kids were regarded as appropriate Christmas offerings to the poor has given way to the concept of helping people help themselves.

Give them a place they can turn to, a guide over a rough path and the boost they need to climb over the top and face the world on their own.

Let's go back to Rita. The first thing that happened to her was the disappearance of her husband. He vanished, deserting her and their little son, and leaving behind a legacy of unpaid bills and persistent creditors.

A Shrinking Paycheck. Rita got a job. But when payday came, she discovered that her boss had deceived her when he'd told her what her wages would be: they were far less than his promise.

She tried to stretch the money, moving into a cheap, vermin-ridden, one-room apartment. That apartment came to seem like a dead-end – symbolically as well as literally. Rita simply did not know where to turn or what to do.

Then a friend told her about a job opportunity in New York State. Leaving the toddler with her friend, Rita took a bus to the distant town, was interviewed – and got the job.

But she had no money to make the move, no money to make the required deposit on a new apartment. Through the Family Life Education program at Family Service, Rita knew about the

Controversial $4.3 Million PHS Bond Issue Goes Before Public in Referendum Tuesday

"I'm for it, I intend to vote 'yes' and I hope it will pass," said Superintendent Paul Houston this week concerning the $4,366,000 Princeton High School bond referendum.

Princeton residents will vote on the referendum next Tuesday, December 13. Polling places, listed below, will be open from 4 to 9 p.m.

At the high school, 264 students stood in line outdoors and off-campus (such soliciting is not allowed on the grounds) to pay their share of an ad urging a "yes" vote on the referendum. See page 25. An advertisement from the school board itself, asking a "yes" vote, is on page 24.

This week, the administrators association announced its support declaring, "We believe the proposed construction is educationally and economically sound."

Interest in the bond issue has increased in the past week, and a full "Mailbox" on pages 22 and 23 is an indication of this upward turn.

School board members have been urging attendance at the official public hearing on the referendum, to be held this Wednesday at 9 p.m. at the high school.

Hearing Date Questioned. Opponents of the referendum have charged the board with deliberately scheduling the hearing too late to be reported by either local newspaper in advance of the referendum; however, board secretary William Evans explains that, since the board wanted the hearing held in the high school building itself, a Wednesday night scheduling was essential. The building is used by the Adult School on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

"What will happen if the referendum is defeated?" asked Borough Council member Martin P. Lombardo of school board president Dietrich Meyerhofer, who attended last week's Council work session.

"We could fix some things, like the roof, maybe, out of the capital budget which has no 'cap,' as the maintenance budget does. Dr. Meyerhofer replied, "but taxes would have to go up."

"We'll have to deal with the high school sooner or later, even if the referendum is defeated, and sooner or later, it will have to come out of pocket," Dr. Houston observed this week in an interview.

When opponents of the referendum say it should have been postponed until evaluation of the high school, Dr. Houston says the fact that he is looking at the school's program this year, "doesn't have that much relevance."

"The referendum package is basic, and flexible enough to that program changes wouldn't have that much effect," he said.

Authored by Committee. The bond referendum package was assembled by the Bond Referendum Advisory Committee (BRAC) of 28 citizens appointed by the school board as broadly representative of the Princeton community.

Richard Cobb, BRAC chairman, has explained that the committee agreed not to include any item in its referendum proposal unless it had the support of 85 percent of those on the committee. Dr. Houston says most items received 90 to 95 percent support.

There was no minority report. It would have been difficult to assemble one, the superintendent has observed, because a committee member who opposed one item might support another. And those who were against an item sometimes opposed it solely because they felt it would not be accepted by the voters. Others had specific reasons for opposing an item.

"What impressed me," Dr. Houston said, "was the package. I was leaning at first to splitting off the essential repairs from the rest. But BRAC fitted the package together as an organic whole, which a split would take away from. As the BRAC people worked, the pieces that didn't fit, tended to fall away."

"If it were split, and repairs were approved, the other needs would still be there," he continued, "you'd have to come back to the public and say, 'oh, by the way.....' and this is playing games".

Library Is Vital. The library is the most essential of those needs, in the superintendent's view, and he doesn't feel that the public library can help out here because it doesn't serve the same needs as a high school library. It is also relatively far from the high school building.

Plans call for expanding the library by converting the smaller of the school's two gyms–the so-called "girls' gym"—adding it to the present library and building a new gym in replacement. The present library is regarded as adequate for 500 students. It serves 1,100.

Laboratory plumbing is almost beyond repair, he continued, there is not "equity of physical education facilities." More girls than ever are in athletic programs and the school was not built with this in mind. Guidance department offices are cramped and separated from one another.

"You know, much of the work we'll be doing in safety and maintenance is linked to what we'd be doing educationally. You allot so much in dollars for ceiling tile. Some of it goes to replace the toxic ceiling tile we have now, but some of it goes on the ceiling of a new, upgraded science lab. So it's hard to split what people call 'bricks and mortar' from the rest.

"We tend, sometimes, to push off the educational needs, but this program 'weds' the two. This proposal was built on the educational needs – the bricks-and-mortar follow along.

"Students who were on the BRAC committee talked about the negative feelings they had in a bad classroom with bad lighting. Adults on the BRAC committee hadn't realized those feelings."

About the Auto Lift. The controversial auto lift was included late, and may not even be in the final package, Dr. Houston commented, but "if we continue to have an auto program, we must have it. Kids aren't allowed to get under cars, as it is now."

"Probably we'll have a vocational program of some sort," Dr. Houston said, "and it's more than just the auto lift. The floor has buckled in that area, for example, and needs repair. I'd say that by bid time, we'll have decided how much of a vocation program we'll have, but there's a lot more study ahead before bidding."

The superintendent would like to see a 10th and 11th grade course that would offer life skills, like auto repair and cooking. He believes that if such courses were interesting enough, they would draw students. The middle school already has such a program.

The BRAC proposal is designed with a 25-year horizon – the life of the bond issue.

Although enrollment in the district as a whole is now declining, it is not yet down by much at the high school. Before the 25-year bond issue is very far along the way, presumably the sewer moratorium will be completely lifted, a housing Master Plan will be completed and homes will be built again. Also, the Princeton Regional Planning Board is working with figures that show a modestly growing, and not a stagnant, Princeton community.

Growth Charted. "We assume there will be an increase in high school students as the town grows," Dr. Houston said, "because of the cost of housing here, it will be families with older – high-school age – children who'll be moving in. Young families with little kids can't afford to."

At present, BRAC members have pointed out, the high school's classrooms have a 96 percent "utilization rate." It doesn't allow much for growth, BRAC members say, and limits the possibilities for independent study.

Turning back to the "what if" of defeat, Dr. Houston summarized: essential repairs will have to be financed through the capital budget which has no 'caps,' and would mean an increase in taxes; the library would continue to be sub-standard; "we wnn't stop giving phys. ed., but the facilities will be inadequate and inequitable between boys and girls;" independent study will continue, but will be cramped.

Cost of the $4,366,000 bond issue for the taxpayer has been calculated by Charles Cornforth of the BRAC committee, and appears in the pamphlet mailed to households.

If you live in the Borough and pay $1,000 a year in taxes now, you would pay $25 more a year if the referendum passes; in the Township, $23 a year more.

Increases Listed. For Borough taxpayers, the additional amount goes up by $5 for each $200 more you pay in taxes: $30 more if you now pay $1,200 and so on---until it reaches $75 more if you're paying $3,000 now.

The scale then changes. If you're now paying $4,000 a year, you'll pay $100 more. The scale stops with the taxpayer who pays the Borough $7,000 a year. That increase is $176.

The Township taxpayer now paying $2,000 a year, would pay an additional $45; the $3,000 taxpayer, another $68. For the top taxpayer in the Township, $7,000 taxpayer, the additional amount would be $159.

If you pay $200 in taxes–the lowest amount on the scale–your additional tax in both Borough and Township would be $5 a year.

Tentative $8.9 Million School Budget Adopted; Borough Rate Up 7 Cents, Township Holds Even

"It's too early yet to see the impact on staff, but programs won't be dramatically altered," said School Superintendent Paul Houston, commenting on the tentative 1978-79 $8,908,600 school budget, adopted by the board last week.

Public hearing on the budget has been set for Tuesday, January 3, although the board may schedule additional dates for discussion before then. Deadline for adoption of a final budget is January 25.

Highlights:

- Borough taxpayers will pay 7 cents more per $100 of assessed valuation and Township taxpayers a half-cent less. (This is the third year of phasing in to use of a rateables basis for calculating taxes).
- The budget is precisely at the "cap" level set for Princeton by the state -- a 3.2 percent increase in current expenses over the present budget.
- Princeton will not appeal that "cap" assignment.
- A staff cut of 14 to 16 is a possibility, one-third less than predicted at this time last year.
- $8,407,100 of the budget is current expense, $190,600 is capital outlay and $310,900 is debt service. (This does not include debt service that will result if the referendum is passed).
- A four percent raise for teachers is included. Negotiations are still being held.

Quality and Economy. "We've taken care to keep the budget under control, to let the public know we're serious about planning quality programs within our financial ability," Dr. Houston says. "We purposely didn't go for a 'cap' appeal: because of lower enrollment and more in-depth analysis of specific items, we COULD keep to the cap limit."

Ronald Novak, business administrator, points out that actual staff cuts won't be known until next spring's planning, or just before school opens, in late summer.

As it is now, the Middle School, with decreased enrollment, is losing the most: two language-art teachers, 1.5 math., two social studies and one-half science.

Elementary schools overall, are scheduled to lose 7.9: four at Community Park, 2.2 at Johnson Park (however, redistricting may change this), one at Riverside and .7 at Littlebrook.

"At the most," Dr. Houston says, "Princeton High is losing two or three, -- PHS isn't losing enrollment like the rest of the schools."

Dr. Houston says he hopes that natural attrition -- retirement, teachers moving away, and so on -- will mean he doesn't have to "RIF." (Apply Reduction in Force).

Aid for Other Schools. The budget's $190,000 in capital outlay is up from the present $40,000 for projects in schools other than the high school: $75,000 for a Littlebrook roof, $45,000 for repairs to the John Witherspoon gym (including new bleachers and an acoustic ceiling), and so on.

Dr. Houston hopes for $15,200 for middle-and-high school drama, perhaps a single person for both schools. "I've had a lot of pressure for this program," he says. He has also proposed $5,000 for a local mini-grant program to encourage teacher creativity.

The four percent alloted for teacher raises depends on the outcome of negotiations. If the new contract calls for more, something will have to give. So far, there has been no decision about what part of the budget to trim, if that is the case.

TOPICS Of The Town

GARAGE PLANS PROCEED

Ordinance in January. The bulldozers will move closer, following introduction early in January of the ordinance that will start things moving toward construction of a $3 million Borough parking garage, Council decided at its work session last Wednesday. Council's advisory committee on parking has recommended:

- An 800-space garage on the Witherspoon - library lot.
- A Municipal Parking Utility which would be part of the Borough government, to run the garage.

- Modified parking requirements in the zoning ordinance, so that a business establishment could either provide parking on its own property, sign a long-term lease for garage space or make a cash contribution based on a formula to be worked out.
- Financing through general - obligation bonds on a self-liquidating-basis.

Supervision Essential. Ways in which the completed garage affect the Central Business District should be watched closely by Planning Board and Council, the advisory committee warned.

Will a garage mean rapid growth? Should the amount of development allowed in the CBD be changed? Is there danger, as one advisory committee member put it, that Princeton will change into a "big-time urban" community?

"The use of available land, and traffic are not small problems" Mayor Robert W. Cawley observed.

The mayor also told Council he was worried about the capacity of the garage, and how the Borough can make sure there isn't more development than the garage can handle.

"Is this garage for problems we have now, or for the future?" asked Council member Richard Woodbridge. "It's a grey area."

"It's for both," the mayor replied, "but the question is, how will the garage be used?"

Are 800 Spaces Enough? Merchants have obtained commitments for about 650 spaces. This includes 240 spaces to be used by the proposed housing project for the elderly and present Palmer Square tenants.

"In the long run," the mayor asked, "do we have a big enough garage? A lot depends on where people who signed up for spaces are parking now."

"I want to make sure employees get a crack at those garage spaces, not just the boss," Mr. Woodbridge observed.

Exact duties for the Parking Utility haven't been worked out, but Mayor Cawley described it as a "government - by - citizen" organization, rather like the Sewer Operating Committee.

Mayor Cawley said this week that if the Borough can prove to the state that the garage will be self - liquidating, the municipality would be allowed to float its bonds with no down payment. Also, a self-liquidating arrangement would mean that the debt wouldn't count toward the Borough's state-imposed statutory limit on debt.

"There wouldn't be any bite on the taxpayer at all," he added. By presenting leases signed in advance, showing the state what income-outgo projections have been made, the Borough could make its case, the mayor declared.

Another question is the on-street parking rate. Princeton's ten cents an hour compared to 25 cents in other communities, and the Borough's consultant says the ten-cent rate is too low.

"You get eight hours for 80 cents, compared to $1 in the garage. We must increase those rates," Mr. Woodbridge said.

Council members Martin P. Lombardo and Nelson van den Blink demurred at this. Colleague Leona Medvin observed that if one purpose of the garage is to lure shoppers to a Princeton with lots of parking room, too sharp a rate would defeat the purpose.

RENT CONTROL....

Extended to January 31. "Mathematically, you can't make a buck", observed landlord Arthur Von Tobel last Wednesday, as Borough Council extended the rent levelling ordinance until January 31. Now that the ordinance has another few weeks' lease on life, work on its future is on Council's December 20 agenda.

"How is a tenant protected under state law, from unconscionable increases?" asked tenant Robert McChesney, adding that he supports indefinite extension of the ordinance.

"This isn't a free market economy in Princeton," he told Council, "It's a monopolistie situation, without competition. It needs societal controls."

"You own property to make a fair return," Mr. Von Tobel said, "We need income to pay our bills."

DNA AGAIN

Will Borough Allow P-3? A resolution authorizing DNA research at the P-3 level will be presented to Borough Council at Monday night's 8 p.m. agenda session by William Selden, Mr. Selden told Council at last Wednesday's work session.

The resolution will also extend formal thanks to the DNA citizens committee and accept its report "in principle," Mr. Selden said. The report was never formally accepted nor was the committee ever thanked for its work, when Council decided early last summer to ban P-3 research. "P-3" refers to the level of security maintained in a lab. P-1 is the level at most high schools,, P-2 is now done at many universities and Princeton University wants to do P-3 work.

Plans had been made to bring up the ONA question again in six months. Last week, Council was divided on what "six months" means: December or January?

"We should thank the citizens committee and bring DNA up again," said Council member Martin P. Lombardo.

Mr. Selden reported that he had material on what other labs throughout the country are doing, and Council member Richard Woodbridge said he regarded it as important to know whether mistakes at the P-3 level had occurred in other communities. He told Council that Dennis Helms, widely known in the field, has agreed to talk with Council on DNA.

VANDALISM REPORT

$1,000 At Construction Site. Princeton police report five separate incidents of vandalism last week.

Approximately $1,000 in damage was done at a construciton site at Mount Lucas Rnad and Ewing Street, where police said a light truck with dual rear wheels jumped a curb and drove into the construction area.

It traveled over six lengths of cast iron pipe, damaging them, and struck and damaged six metal door frames propped against the side of a storage trailer. The truck then ran into the trailer, knocked it from its supports and caused damage to the left side. Twelve metal and glass window units inside the trailer were damaged.

The incident was reported by William Foulke, superintendent for Leon Weiner & Associates of Wilmington, Del Ptl. Peter Savalli investigated.

In the Borough, a six by three-foot plated glass window in the front door of Allen's, 134 Nassau Street, was kicked in, and a display window at Kalen's Fine Arts on Palmer Square was broken. Display items from Kalen's were scattered inside and outside the window. Police report they do not know how the window was broken. It was discovered at 12:30 Saturday morning by two pedestrians.

Six windows in the office area of the Methodist Church, Nassau and Vandeventer, were smashed during the weekend with a blunt instrument, and a Hawthorne Avenue resident reports tar and paint smeared on his car. Two youths were seen going into his unlocked garage, police said.

Early in the week, the tires of the car of a Trenton resident were punctured while it was parked in the Merwick lot off Bayard Lane.

TWO TEENAGERS CAUGHT

Shoplifting. Two 14-year old Princeton girls were detected shoplifting last week in the Acme Market in the Princeton Shopping Center.

The store's assistant manager, Samuel Eleuteri, told police he saw one take two articles from a counter and put them in her shoulder bag, while the other appeared to be a lookout. He approached them and removed the two items (pantyhose) and held them until police arrived.

During questioning at police headquarters, Ptl. Jerry Offredo discovered additional articles of clothing in their bags. They admitted taking the clothing from Bamberger's before going to the Acme. The clothing was valued at $145, police said.

They were releaaed to their parents, pending charges by Township Juvenile Officer Anthony Pinelli.

GUN IS STOLEN

From John Street Apartment. A .25 caliber pistol and a box of ammunition were reported stolen Friday from an apartment on John Street. Also taken were clothing and a wristwatch. Combined value of all was $148.

Police said that there were no signs of forced entry.

A lock was slipped last week to enter a student's room in Holder Hall on the university campus. Taken were a portable TV with AM-FM radio valued at $200, eight records valued at $47 and a $65 hunting jacket.

There was an attempt to enter the apartment of Marilyn R. Johnson, 17 Red Oak Row, between 2:45 and 3 Friday afternoon.

Ms. Johnson told police she left at 2:45 and when she returned 15 minutes later she discovered the front door frame broken. Police said the door had been forced, causing the wooden frame to split and a metal keeper to fall to the floor. It is unknown if an actual entry was gained.

Snowy white

Black as night?

Snow flurries, snow showers, the forecast keeps saying (and it has been right with some frequency.) Maybe snow to stay for a while by Friday, the Man says now.

Speaking of clouds, they really did dominate the scene in November. That month usually gives us sunshine 52% of the time during daylight hours, weather records show.

How much did we really get? A measly 24%, and that's the lowest amount since that sort of situation was first kept in 1913.

Man Seriously Burned in Automobile Accident Is Flown by Helicopter for Special Treatment

A Hightstown resident, severely burned when his car went off the Princeton-Kingston Road early Sunday morning, struck a tree and burst into flames, has been flown to a born center in Pennsylvania.

A helicopter landed on the Community Pool parking lot at 11:15 Sunday morning and took off at 12:25 with Jon. A Nuse, 26, 27 Wilmore Drive, Hightstown, for the Crossier-Chester Burn Center. Mr. Nuse had suffered first, second and third degree burns on 70 percent of his body.

First transported by the Princeton First Aid Squad to Princeton Medical Center, he was treated by Dr. Thomas Davidson for internal injuries and a fractured right leg, in addition to his burns.

Ptl. Mario Musso responded to a call to police headquarters at 4:40 that there had been an accident on the Princeton-Kingston Road between Snowden Lane and Locust Lane. Arriving, he saw a 1971 sedan against a tree, engulfed in flames. He requested aid from the fire department.

In checking the area, Ptl. Musso discovered the smouldering and burning form of Mr. Nuse on the lawn of 508 P-K Road. His trousers were on fire, and Ptl. Musso used a blanket to put out the flames. A few minutes later, three units from the Princeton Volunteer Fire Company arrived and extinguished the blazing car.

Ptl. Musso's investigation revealed that the Nuse car had left the roadway and travelled 318 feet, leveling four mailboxes and a traffic sign. It came to rest against a tree before erupting in flames. The car was a total loss.

Mailboxes and posts damaged were those of Maurice Benedetti, 508 P-K Road; Stanley Schweitzer, 511; William Marciniak, 516; and Mrs. Esther Dilworth, 524.

Two Are Injured. A turning accident on Nassau Street Friday led to injuries to both drivers.

According to the investigation by Sgt. Robert Anderson, Terry L. Martin, 25, of New Canaan, Conn., attempted a left turn into a service station opposite Linden Lane right in front of a car driven by Robbin A. McGeady, 18, of Somerset.

Both were taken to the Medical Center where Mr. Martin was treated for abrasions and contusions and a slight concussion and Miss McGeady for a laceration of the lip and chin, two broken teeth and bruises.

Mr. Martin was issued a summons for failure to give a proper signal. Both cars had to be towed from the accident, which occurred a few minutes after 5 p.m.

Council Planning to Raise Its Pay Despite Objections of One Member

Compromising between at least one Borough Council member who wants to see a sizeable salary increase for mayor and members, and one who stoutly refuses to vote for any increase at all, Council voted 4-1 at its work session last Wednesday for a moderate increase.

The mayor would receive $1,800 instead of present $1,000. Council members would receive $1,200 instead of $750. Nelson van den Blink voted "no." Gus Escher, who was absent, had proposed at least $2,000 for the mayor and $1,500 for Council.

The ordinance will be introduced in January.

The effect of the raise on the taxpayer isn't much, Mrs. van den Blink conceded, "but it is symbolic." Mr. Escher reportedly had suggested that a salary be the equivalent of a part-time job, to attract people, but Mrs. van den Blink said the salary would have to be really high to achieve that goal.

Martin P. Lombardo, who has always wanted a referendum on the subject, said low-income young people couldn't afford to be volunteer public servants. Asked point-blank by colleague William Selden whether he supported an increase, he paused for a long moment and then said, "I'm inclined to an increase, yes."

When Richard Woodbridge, who maintains a law office, said his secretary did a lot of typing of his Borough memos and such, Mrs. van den Blink exclaimed,

"Lucky man! I do it all myself!"

Mr. Selden said he'd support a maximum of $1,500 but would not accept it for himself. Should a 3-3 tie come about, he warned Council, he'd vote "no."

"I don't want to push it, if we've got a paper-thin majority," commented Mayor Robert W. Cawley.

SEWER CHARGE: UP

Ordinance to Be Passed. Township home-owners will be charged $9.96 per 1,000 cubic feet of water, compared to the present charge of $3.67 under the new sewer charge ordinance up for public hearing this Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Township Hall.

The increase is related to use of the new treatment plant of the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority. Committee will also introduce an ordinance providing $70,000 for revaluation of all Township properties.

Other items on Wednesday's agenda are the parking and traffic problems outside the Somerset Farms store on Route 206, and introduction of the ordinance providing for a joint Environmental Commission with the Borough.

Committee will also consider notice of a petition by Public Service for general increase in electric and gas rates.

"NO" TO SYSTECH

On Industrial Waste. "If Princeton went looking for industry, it would be the last industry we'd look for," said Township Committee member David Blair bluntly, as he explained to Borough Council why Committee was about to shut the door against Systech.

This is the company that would like to lease the old sewer plant, process industrial waste in it, and siphon the waste over to the new sewer plant for disposal.

Council's consensus: Committee did the right thing. (Committee voted 5-0 to reject the offer.)

Like some Revolutionary War courier, Mr. Blair burst upon Council's Wednesday night work session, fresh from a fast ride up Bayard Lane from Township Hall where Committee was meeting.

"We're planning to reject Systech, and we wanted the Borough to know," Mr. Blair announced.

The Borough, with the Township and Princeton University, owns the old sewer plant and would share in Systech revenue. The Township also has on record a request to the Borough to help pay for winterizing the plant once it is abandoned.

Offer "Ridiculous." Systech's initial offer -- $7,000 to $12,000 a year -- was "ridiculous," Mr. Blair told Council. Asked by the Township for "a piece of the action," Systech did agree to what it called "revenue sharing," Mr. Blair continued, but the Township felt that environmental problems overwhelmed any amount of money Systech might agree to.

GIVING CONTINUES: Philip G. Connell (left), prasident of American Cyenamid, presents e combined gift of over $22,000 from the company end its employees to James Stewart III, general chairmen of the United Fund-Red Cross Cempaign. The gift represents en increese of 22.8 percent over Cyenamid's contribution lest yeer end brings the total to 68.5 percent of goel or $527,373 in contributions.

One truck every ten minutes, five days a week: 125,000 gallons per day or 25 truckloads in 20-ton trucks, Mr. Blair calculated. Also, he said, the Township wasn't sure it could back out, at the end of a ten-year lease, if it didn't like the arrangement.

"Is this pretty exotic swill?" asked Council member Richard Woodbridge.

Systech draws from a 100-mile radius of Princeton, Mr Blair replied, "the area with the heaviest concentration of chemical industries in New Jersey, maybe in the world. Residual salts, he explained, could be a "horrendous" problem. Systech has said it would eliminate the heavy metals.

Mr. Blair reminded Council that trucks would possibly be using Route 27 (Nassau Street) as well as Route 27 beyond Kingston and State Road.

The question remains -- what to do with the old plant? It might be sold to the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority, whose new plant will open soon next door, suggested Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley.

"How about a park, with Federal money?" suggested Council member Leona Medvin.

"We'd like the money, but we don't feel this is a thing we should do to Princeton for ANY amount," Mr. Blair said.

CAMERAS ARE STOLEN

Loss Is $2,660. Cameras, lenses, and equipment valued at $2,660 have been stolen from two locked rooms in the Jadwin Physics Building on the Princeton University campus.

Chief Frederick Porter reported that police "strongly believe" that a key was used to enter the locked rooms of A04 and A05. Keys to those rooms are limited to a few users, he said, and a full investigation is underway by Det. Frank Boccanfuso and Ptl. William Potts.

The theft was reported by Robert D. Matthews, an employee of the university's photographic department, who noticed the loss Thursday morning. Mr. Matthews lost a Hasselblad 500C camera and 80mm lens valued at $1100 and two film magazines worth $275. The rest of the equipment, including a Nikon camera, three Nikon lenses, flash units and film were owned by the University.

Parked Car Looted. The car of a Hopewell resident, parked behind the Cap and Gown Club on Prospect Avenue, was forcibly entered and looted of a $140 CB radio, a wallet containing $2 and a $36 check drawn on the First National Bank of Princeton. Ptl. John Holcombe and Ptl. Randy Sutton investigated the Sunday call at 3 p.m.

Last Wednesday, a Bound Brook resident left her leather purse on the front seat of her car while she went inside Viking Furniture, 259 Nassau Street. She was absent only five minutes but that was all the time someone needed to enter her unlocked car and grab her purse, which contained $10 and credit cards.

For Auction Sunday. Arrangements have been completed for the Decemberfest Auction to benefit the Stony Brook - Millstone Watersheds Association. It will be held at the Institute for Advanced Study Sunday between 5 and 8.

The light Florentine supper served by caterer Richard Ferrugio will consist of "pollo affinocchiato," or boned chicken with fennel and almonds. "Frittata di spinachi," an omelet-like cake will be a side dish. There will be a cash bar from which suitable wine may be obtained, as well as other drinks.

The list of items which will come under the hammer of auctioneer Jay Bleiman, former mayor of Princeton Township, has lengthened appreciably. New items include the selected early blues records from the collection of John S. Wilson of Griggstown, the jazz columnist for the New York Times. There will also be a print by artist Helen Schwartz and prints by photographer Naomi Savage of wildflowers on dinner plates and desert plates, as well as prints by the same artist of leaves on notepaper.

Autographed books by Dorothea Greenbaum, Isak Dinensen, "Adam Smith," Wheaton Lane and Charlotte A. DuBois will be available. For bird feeders, 50 pounds of sunflower seed or 20 pounds of mixed seed are up for bid.

WOMAN IS ASSAULTED

On William Street. A 23-year old Hillsborough Township woman was assaulted early Friday morning while she was walking on William Street between Charlton and Olden. She was not injured.

Chief Michael Carnevale said that the victim had a whistle in her possession and as she was grabbed, she blew it, frightening off her assailant. He was described as 5-9, 17 to 25, slim with dark hair. Det. Timothy Huizing is continuing the investigation.

The victim, Chief Carnevale reported, had sensed that she was being followed. She changed direction several times and crossed the street to see if she was still being followed.

Her pursuer ran up to her near the Engineering Quadrangle parking lot and pushed her on the shoulder. The attack took place at 12:53 a.m.

It came only two days after a Forum on Rape had been held on the university campus. "Some of the very methods discussed were used by the victim," said Chief Carnevale, who had spoken at the forum.

"You can see the importance of women being well versed in what precautions should be taken in case of a sex assault," he said. "It is incumbent upon all women to participate in rape forums and seminars if they can," Chief Carnevale concluded.

Unprovoked Attack. There was an unprovoked attack on a Princeton resident Saturday evening at 7:30 by two men, as he was walking on Olden Street near the University's Mudd Library.

In his late 20s and associated with the university, the victim was punched by a man described as in his 20s, 5-10 and slim. He was accompanied by another man. Both wore white hats, police said.

The victim was not injured, police report, adding that there was no reason for the attack. Ptl. Joseph Wilhelm and Ptl. David Alston investigated.

FOUR ARE FINED

For Careless Driving. Four Princeton area residents were fined Monday by Borough Judge Philip Carchman for careless driving.

They are Maria Moers, Blackwells Mills Road, Belle Mead, $30; Michael Long, 61 N. Tulane Street, $25; Paul W. Hoad, 7V Hibben Apartments, $30; and Charles D. Peacock, 38½ Leigh Avenue, $25. Vincent Pirone, 448 Ewing Street, and Thomas V. Lange, 343 Jefferson Road, were fined $35 and $33 for speeding.

Nader Safai, West Drive, paid $25 for a red light violation, while Michelle Seith, 172 Nassau Street, paid $20 for the same offense. Others: Mario R. D'Antonio, 3271 Lawrence Road, Lawrenceville, $20, failure to yield the right of way to a pedestrian; Dennis Wrong, Drake's Corner Road, $45, disregarding an officer's signal; and Hannah Kahn, 20 Linden Lane, $20, failure to keep right.

In Township court last week, Judge Carchman fined three for speeding: Bruce E. Lawrence, Bellmont Road, Belle Mead, $20; Leonard J. Pizzolato III, Willow Road, Belle Mead, $20; and Darryl K. Pemberton, Highway 27, $35. In addition, Mr. Pizzolato was fined $10 for following too closely and Mr. Pemberton paid an additional $20 for no registration in possession.

Michael D. Boccanfuso, 56 Fisher Avenue, was fined $30 for failure to keep right.

Police Raid Nets Eight in Campus Drug Ring

DRUG RAID SPOILS: The results of a police raid on three Princeton University dormitory rooms resulted in this cache of drugs and narcotic paraphernalia assembled for the police photographer. Among the drugs seized were marijuana, hashish, cocaine, LSD and scales, strainers and packaging devices.

A month-long investigation by Borough police into alleged drug traffic on the Princeton University campus ended last week in early-morning raids on three dormitory rooms and the arrest of eight suspects.

Chief Michael Carnevale reported that police seized a "considerable quantity" of marijuana, hashish, cocaine and LSD – "enough," he said, "to indicate very definitely that there was trafficking in drugs on the campus."

Seven of those arrested are students at the University; the eighth is a former student. The raids were conducted at 6 Friday morning in Room 51 in Blair Hall, and Rooms 153 and 161 of Princeton Inn College.

The eight suspects were arraigned the same day before Judge Philip Carchman. Francois M. Lang, 19, 161 Princeton Inn College, charged with possession of marijuana, hashish, and LSD, and possession with intent to distribute LSD, and John B. Palmer, 19, 153 Princeton Inn College, charged with possession of marijuana, cocaine and possession with intent to distribute marijuana and cocaine, were each released in 10 percent of $2,500 bail.

The others were released in their own recognizance. They are Charles Vaughn, 19, and William V. Healy III, 19, both charged with possession of hashish, marijuana and cocaine; Anthony Lamm, 19, and Alex A. Alimanestianu, 18, both charged with possession of hashish and marijuana and possession of hashish with intent to distribute, and Donald Roy, 19, a former student from Salem, N.H., not enrolled at the school this semester. They were arrested in Blair Hall by Det. Ronald Holiday, the complainant, assisted by Ptl. William Hunter, Ptl. William Clark and a University proctor.

Also arrested in 153 Princeton Inn College together with Palmer was Enrique Campos Jr., 19, charged with possession of marijuana. That raid was led by Lt. John J. Bellow, assisted Sgt. Thomas Michaud, the complainant; Ptl. Victor Fasanella and a proctor.

The raid on Room 161 was led by Det. Timothy Huizing, the complainant, assisted by Ptl. Randy and a proctor.

Chief Carnevale reported that the police investigation began the first week of November, after he received information from University officials about possible drug traffic. Detectives Huizing and Holiday of the department's narcotics bureau were assigned to the investigation. Information collected by the officers led to affidavits that resulted in the issuance of search warrants.

The raid was the first involving drugs on campus in two years, Chief Carnevale said.

WORLD FESTIVAL SET

On Sunday at YWCA. The YWCA will hold its second International Celebration of the Holiday Season Sunday from 3 to 6. Everyone in the Princeton area is invited to learn about and share in the holiday traditions of countries all over the world.

There will be music by the Princeton Recorder Ensemble and by the Consortium and Chorus of Princeton Day School. Bob Mehlman and members of the Princeton Folk Dance Group will lead a workshop to teach and perform international folk dances.

Ongoing displays will include a traditional Christmas Eve table with foods and decorations prepared by Branches 11 and 19 of the Ukranian National Women's League of America, which works to preserve the Ukranian heritage in this country. Mrs. Masako Nakagawa has arranged displays and games which will illustrate the 1,000 year old Girls Doll Festival. Special holiday dolls will be shown, and guests will learn how Japanese girls spend the day dedicated to the dolls.

Bus Drops Trenton

Princeton's Inner Loop bus won't be tacked onto the end of the Hamilton Square - Trenton Route of Mercer Metro starting next Thursday, December 15. Instead, the bus will remain on Princeton's Inner Loop all day, and the schedule now in use will be continued.

The change means, according to Princeton's bus co-ordinator, Sydney Taggart, that buses will now be able to run on time. As it is now, if a bus is delayed in either Hamilton Square or Trenton , or encounters traffic getting into Princeton, it can be 20 to 30 minutes late.

Bus schedules may be picked up at Borough and Township Halls, TOWN TOPICS, the Public Library, Hinkson's, Cox's, The Whole Earth Center, Center Stationers and the banks.

The announcement came from the office of Freeholder Barbara Sigmund.

Carolyn Mosely will play her guitar and sing traditional American folk songs, and the Ajile Dancers will perform some unusual ethnic dances. The children of the Princeton Jewish Center will demonstrate and explain the traditions of Hanukkah by lighting the menorah and explaining its significance in Jewish history. They will also sing holiday songs and tell how to play the dreidel game.

The Princeton Russian Chorus will complete the entertainment with a medley of songs sung in both Russian and in English. Holiday cookies, ethnic pastries and apple cider will be served without charge to everyone, although donations will be appreciated to defray expenses.

Parents of children in the after school program will hold a benefit bake sale, and there will be a corner gift shop where craftsmen will sell handmade Christmas ornaments and unusual small gifts.

BOARD, OFFICE OF TECHNOLOGY ASSESSMENT

Senator Clifford P. Case reports to you

Bill New Jersey Senators Have Introduced Would Increase Protection to Pine Barrens

For a number of years I have been searching for a means of providing greater protection to New Jersey's Pine Barrens. Recently, I introduced, along with Senator Williams, a bill that I believe provides a means of protecting not only the Pine Barrens but also a large number of similar areas throughout the country.

The Pine Barrens, which the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation describes as among the most outstanding natural areas in the country, already meets the criteria for designation as a National Park or a National Recreation Area. But designation of an area as a National Park or a National Recreation Area involves federal acquisition of the land within the prescribed boundaries of the area. That presented problems in seeking to protect the Pine Barrens.

If all of the area of the Pine Barrens were to be protected as a National Park or a National Recreation Area, it would acquisition of 970,000 acres, or about one quarter of the land area of the whole state. Obviously, that would require an unrealistic Federal expenditure. In addition, it would be too disruptive of communities and private land holdings in the area.

Therefore, a new system must be devised to provide the protection needed for the Pine Barrens. The system provided for in our bill is the National Reserves System.

A Cooperative Undertaking.

The underlying premise of this new system is that the Federal government can work in cooperation with State and local governments and the private sector to provide protection to outstanding natural areas. Under the National Reserves System, each unit of government, federal, state and local, is assigned the role it is best suited to play.

In all cases, actual land acquisition is held to a minimum and other means of land management are given priority. Private activities, such as blueberry and cranberry farming, are permitted to continue as long as they are compatible with the need for protection of the area.

In place of the massive expenditures of federal money that would be required for land acquisition, smaller amounts are provided for payments to compensate private landowners for the right of public access, for other compensatory payments to landowners, for payments in lieu of taxes to local units of government, and for development of special public recreation and historical interpretation projects. In addition, the Federal government will be authorized to purchase land which then will be resold or leased to the owner with restrictions on its future use, thus protecting the interest of the landowner and meeting the needs of the Reserve.

A key point in the new system is flexibility. It permits the nomination of an area as a National Reserve to come from a variety of sources, at the Federal, State or local level. Once an area has been nominated and approved as a Federal Reserve Planning area, the system permits a plan for managing the area to be worked out specifically for that area by state or local officials or a combination of state and local officials.

Since we already know the Pine Barrens meet the criteria for consideration as a National Reserve, our bill gives the Pine Barrens a head start in the two-stage process leading toward designation. The bill designates the Pine Barrens as a National Reserve Planning Area, which is the first step in the process. No other area is specifically mentioned in the bill.

If a suitable management plan is developed, Congress can then specifically designate the Pine Barrens as a National Reserve.

We expect the bill to receive wide national support. At the end of this year, the Administration will release its urban parks study, which we expect will recommend the approach contained in our bill. Eventually we expect many other areas of the country to follow New Jersey's Pine Barrens in becoming National Reserves.

help. TOWN TOPICS money paid the movers and the deposit and Rita is now self-supporting, happy in her new apartment, happy with her son's day-care center.

"I never could have made it without help....."

Four Without a Mother. In another TOWN TOPICS family, it's the husband and father who found himself alone and in need of help. A loving, conscientious father of four, Tom was determined to keep his brood together after their mother abandoned them.

He has a steady job, but his salary is modest. He knew that the best thing in the world for his kids would be camp during summer vacation. Camp tuition for four? It seemed out of the question.

TOWN TOPICS Christmas funds enabled all four children to attend YMCA camps this summer. Two of the younger children spent two weeks in day camp, and the two older spent three weeks in the Ranger Camp group that went to Nova Scotia.

Another YMCA day camper is the young son of a woman we'll call Belle. She has no one in the world but herself. Parents long since dead, brothers and sisters scattered, husband no longer a member of the family.

She works steadily and hard and is the sole support of her three kids – on an annual income of $6,700. Her youngest child, a little boy, spent four joyous weeks this summer in the YMCA day camp, his tuition paid with TOWN TOPICS funds.

George, a youngster with learning disabilities, comes from another family in which the mother is the sole supporter. This mother has five children, and although she makes only $100 a week, she insisted on paying part of George's camp tuition. The rest came from TOWN TOPICS contributors.

The four weeks that George spent at Camp Success, the YMCA camp for children with learning disability, gave him a big boost toward further success, (and a better image of himself) when the school year began.

When a Father Dies. Sudden death of a father ... no source of income except what the father had brought home.

That was the situation faced by Mary when her husband died. She looked at her five young children with a sense of numb despair. She had never worked. She didn't know how to do anything she could be paid for. The children were too young to help out.

Talking it over with counsellors at Family Service, Mary revealed that she'd always had dreams of being a hairdresser. She is now enrolled in vocational classes learning how to fulfill her dream, and education money was available to help her out. She also is eligible for Social Security.

But there isn't enough left over to provide child care for her youngest, pre-school child. The money you contribute to TOWN TOPICS' fund will keep this child in day care, while his mother builds the foundations of a career that will make her economically self-sufficient.

Aid for the Elderly. Sometimes when you need money, you need it right now. Frail and ill, 76-year-old Gladys needed antibiotics and needed them immediately. Neither the Visiting Nurse Association nor the Homemaker Service had been able to obtain money from Mercer County Welfare for Gladys, and in the emergency, the Homemaker Service turned to Family Service to see whether TOWN TOPICS might help.

Not only was the medical emergency met, but as Gladys improves in health, Family Service will work with her and her husband to help them budget, and to explore other sources of state and Federal aid.

The slow movings of bureaucratic machinery often do not keep pace with the urgent need of human beings for food. When your Food Stamps haven't arrived, for example, and your cupboard is bare, what are you going to do?

Living alone in a single room with cooking privileges, 70-year-old Anna waited and waited, in increasing concern, for the arrival of her Food Stamps. Finally, she turned to Family Service, and a five-dollar bill from the TOWN TOPICS fund, bought milk and eggs and hamburger to keep her going. (Yes, the Stamps finally arrived.)

Worrisome Debts. Convalescing from major surgery still shaky on her feet, Jo almost suffered a relapse when she saw the utility bills, the telephone bill, the hospital bills.

A loan of $108 paid off all these bills, and gave Jo a clean ledger so that she can start learning how to set up a workable budget. Also, she found to her joy that with the pressure and tension removed, her body's healing mechanism started to work again, and she began regaining her health quicker than she had ever thought she would.

All of these cases, and more, are part of the Family Service dossier of people you have helped – and helping – through your annual contribution to the TOWN TOPICS Christmas Appeal.

TOWN TOPICS makes this Appeal only once. But your response is reflected hundreds of times throughout the year in the help Family Service gives.

Over the years, the open hearts of Princeton residents and their neighbors in surrounding towns have given in excess of $100,000 to help friends for whom the holiday lights may not burn quite so joyously as they do for the rest of us. Let your contribution be a year-round gift – from your heart.

Dan Coyle always ended his Christmas Appeal by saying, "Only you will ever know whether you pass it by....."

Checks should be made payable to TOWN TOPICS CHRISTMAS FUND and mailed to Town Topics, Box 664, Princeton, N.J. 08540.

Site for Radio Tower Opposed.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Following is a copy of my letter to the Regional Planning Board of Princeton, relative to the proposal that the Township erect their 145-foot antenna tower on the Borough Hall site.

I believe this would be a great mistake and tragedy affecting the beautiful vista of Borough Hall, the Battle Monument and Morven.

CHARLES R. ERDMAN, JR.
20 Boudinot Street

This is in response to your notice of a hearing on December 6, 1977, to consider the granting of a zoning variance for the use of the property of Borough Hall for the erection of a 145-foot antenna tower.

I wish to lodge the following complaint and objection:

First: As a concerned citizen, I deplore the erection of this 145-foot monstrosity on the beautiful park-like area of Borough Hall, the Battle Monument and Morven.

Certainly this will be no thing of beauty and will be a great detriment to the community at one of its most attractive areas.

The difference in elevation between Borough Hall and Township Hall is approximately 70 feet. I request that the tower remain where it now is and add this allegedly needed extra height to the present tower, thus preserving one of Princeton's most delightful vistas. This would give the same radio coverage as claimed for the use of the Borough Hall property.

Second: As an adjacent property owner to Borough Hall, I have no assurance that the erection of this 145-foot mast will not fatally injure my present excellent radio and television reception because of the interference it may create.

Plans Good for 20 Years.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

In the last issue of your newspaper certain questions were raised about the proposed high school renovation. In response, let me outline the reasons why I strongly endorse the renovation plans put before the School Board by the BRAC citizens' committee and now proposed to the voters by the Board

Before the previous referenda there was a thorough study which determined that the educational needs of the high school were: A greatly enlarged library which would provide adequate space for students needing to study there; flexible rooms for various class sizes; places to study and consult with teachers to further the individualized education; enlarged physical education space which would be able to accommodate the existing program and provide equal facilities for men and women.

In outlining the educational goals to the BRAC Committee the Superintendent suggested that these requirements remain equally pressing today. The Committee agreed and devised a plan to satisfy these needs in the most efficient way possible. The Referendum combines the educational objectives in one package with the needed repairs and safety improvements.

The renovation will satisfy the needs of Princeton High School for the next 20 years or more. Certainly there will he changes in specific programs during that time, but, in fact, the school will always require an adequate library, flexible class and study rooms, and a suitable physical education plant. The plans are sufficiently flexible to accommodate forseeable changes in program.

DIETRICH MEYERHOFER
979 Stuart Road

Editor's Note: Mr. Meyerhofer is chairman of the Hegional School Board.

Interest Rates Prohibitive.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Granted our High School needs improvements.

But why must we pay double for everything by financing these improvements with a bond issue when interest rates are prohibitive?

The only excuse for resorting to a bond issue is to build a major facility which cannot be built piecemeal.

A laundry list of High School imprnvements such as we are being offered next week can best be financed piecemeal out of current income -- at half the cost!

Have we all completely forgotten how to pay as we go?

JOSEPH M.J. BOYD
152 Alexander Street

Give Hope nn Tuesday.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Hope is nne of the best things to give anybody. For Christmas and Hanukkah -- both hopeful seasons -- let's give Princeton a renovated high school.

It will be good for the whole community, young and old. On December 13, vote Yes for the Bond.

FREDERIC FOX
28 Vandeventer Avenue

Unanswered Questions.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Serious and disturbing questions have been raised concerning undisclosed detailed items in Princeton's proposed school budget; questions which should be answered before any vote.

If the referendum were scheduled nearer to income tax day rather than in the holiday season, we would surely ask:

How do we know that educational objectives for "at least the next 25 years," as described in a school board brochure, will be met by recommendations prepared before an announced needs evaluation by our new superintendent?

Why are we dumping teachers and a classroom, but financing new facilities?

Why are we asked to invest "a minimal $10,000 to 20,000" in a two-story auto lift which will eliminate a classroom and benefit 32 students when we now contribute $175,000 to Mercer County's vocational schools which provide an alternative..real job-oriented training?

Why should we leave uninvestigated--before a referendum--details of alleged correspondence relative to effective gymnasium scheduling which directly affects a major cost item in the budget?

I suggest a postponed referendum until the questions are answered, or a rejection of an unitemized budget at the ballot box.

BEVIN SMITH

Appalled by Deterioration.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

There were no more than 30 persons attending the guided tour of Princeton High School last Wednesday night. We wonder if other friends and neighbors would have had the same sense of shame that we experienced as we walked through room after room with exposed pipes, leaking ceilings, inadequate classroom space, revolting, yes revolting, locker rooms set in some cases in the cellar of the original 1928 building.

The local papers are filled with ads for houses in prestigious Princeton, an oasis between two declining cities. We think a tour of the High School would send them scurrying to West Windsor! Not many people would allow their own homes to deteriorate to this level. Yet our children spend long daytime hours of class and after school activities in this building.

The bond referendum calls for monies for necessary repairs and renovations. We urge everyone, whether their Criticism Criticized.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

It is most unfortunate that a school board member felt it necessary to go public at this time to voice her disapproval of the plan to renovate Princeton High School. The voice dissension just prior to the voting of the referendum sows confusion, indecision and possibly indifference at a time when we need the enthusiastic support of all Princetonians.

I am certain her resistance to the plan was based on her conviction that it is the public's "right to know" and that she was fulfilling her public trust. However, anyone who has served on a committee knows that any plan could be "nit-picked" to death. If this renovation plan is to survive and reach fruition, let us all be united in its support, lest the building collapse around our students, who deserve a better fate.

Bond Referendum Opposed.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Since there have been a number of letters to the paper in support of the upcoming high school bond referendum, in the spirit of true orneriness I am writing in opposition.

Actually I am more puzzled than anything else. I have always been opposed to the "concrete and clay" approach to education, and I consider it illogical that teaching staff should be laid off to make way for major capital improvements.

If this trend is carried to is logical conclusion, it can (and often has) resulted in absolutely superb facilities staffed by third-rate people turning out fourth-rate students. Furthermore, since there are so many pro income tax people in Princeton, I ask them why are we not getting our fair shake of all the money supposedly liberated by the income tax. Indeed it appears that Princeton is being compelled to cough up extra to bail out Newark and Jersey City et al.

Why then should the taxpayers of Princeton be saddled with 20 years of debt service-especially when enrollments are declining. (If this trend continues, we may not need any schools at all.) And how can the lofty goals of "T & E" be served through the inevitable increase in class size, reduction of curriculum, and increased student-teacher ratio that will result from the investment in facilities instead of faculty. True, an attempt is being made to meet the needs of vocationally oriented students with local facilities that are more convenient, but what good are facilities if there is no one there to supervise their correct use? (I am not a big believer in Teach Yourself Auto Repair.)

In presenting a "take it or leave it" package deal to the voters, values and priorities seems to have been lost. I intend to leave it.

PTO in the Affirmative.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Here are some of the reasons we are voting "yes" on the Princeton High School Bond Referendum on Decmeber 13:

The library is one-half the size recommended by the state for a school with our enrollment.

Improved science labs and more appropriate classroom design are needed to meet today's programs.

Departmental resource centers must be enlarged to meet increased demand.

50-year old auditorium seats are non-repairable and must be replaced.

More stage space is needed for daily music and drama instruciton.

New gym construciton will correct the unequal facilities for girls and boys and end long-standing locker room deficiencies.

The roof leaks.

Hall ceiling tile is the kind that gives off toxic gas if it burns. Join us in voting for much needed improvements at Princeotn High School. Vote "Yes" on December 13.

Editor's Note: The letter from the Parent-Teacher Organization Board of Princeton High School was signed by:

Betty Sapoch, Jane Evans, Liz Stenard, Judy Warman, Custis Clark, Artis Phillips, Olga Seiler, Connie Reeder, Leiske Wright, Gladys Robertson, Tady Hunter, Carol Wojciechowixz, Alex Wojciechowixz, Jay Bleiman, Anne Cobb, Joan Nielsen, Nancy DiMeglio.

Women Voters in Favor.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

The League of Women Voters of the Princeton Community supports the bond referendum for renovation of the High School which will be submitted to the voters on December 13.

The repair and renovation program covered by the $4,366,000 has been recommended by a broad-based citizens committee which consulted with the educational staff. Great consideration was given not only to present deficiencies but to future needs for a flexible structure to meet changing educational patterns.

The financial commitment is well within the bonding capacity and debt-limit of our community. The increase in the taxpayer's bill, 2¼ percent in the Township and 2½ percent in the Borough, should be reduced as additional ratables are added to the tax rolls. The bond proposal and the renovation seem to be a reasonable and relatively economical solution to the pressing physical problems of Princeton High School.

HARRIET BRYAN,
President
MYRNA JENKINS,
Chairman
School Study Committee

Committee Head Backs Issue.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

December 13 is Decision Day for Princeton High School. I feel that the bond issue deserves the support of the community and would like to explain why I think that this particular renovation program represents the best solution to the High School's needs.

I served as Chairman of the Bond Referendum Advisory Committee (BRAC), a committee representing a broad cross section of the community, which was appointed by the Board of Education to review proposals for renovation of the High School and to recommend a renovation package which would meet the High School's needs and at the same time be acceptable to the community. As Chairman I participated in a series of public meetings with 26 other members of BRAC. We asked countless questions of administrators, architects, students and the public; between meetings we spent many hours at home studying the material supplied to us in response to our questions.

After careful study of all the proposed renovations, the committee voted on each element of each project separately. Those individual renovations which received the support of 80 percent of the Committee were singled out for further consideration. After more discussion, questions, debate and study, we revoted on each of these elements; again each project had to receive the support of 80 percent of the Committee if it was to be included in the final recommendation.

The resulting package of recommendations was then reconfirmed by an 85 percent vote. I feel that the very nature of the BRAC process – careful study, long debate, paring back of proposals, and the "80 percent democracy" – provides in itself an extremely strong rationale for supporting this bond issue, and I urge the community to take this into account when making their decision.

My second major reason for supporting the bond referendum relates to the role played in the formulation of the package by our new Superintendent, Paul Houston. He participated in every BRAC meeting and he oversaw the preparation of the information we requested. In our meetings he demonstrated to me that he is a careful, discriminating listener; furthermore, the high quality of the data we received demonstrated his demand for good staff work.

Even more important, however, was the contribution Dr. Houston made in response to our request that he tell us what he thought the High School needed. He made a very clear statement of his educational goals for the High School and explained how renovations of the physical facilities could help to accomplish these objectives. Dr. Houston's statement was remarkable for the care and thought which had gone into its preparation, for its clarity of expression, and for the absence of educational jargon.

As the BRAC report states, the Committee's final recommendation was not a "rubber stamp" of his recommendations: "...the recommendations in this report represent an attempt to achieve these (Dr. Houston's) goals insofar as possible to the degree that they were consistent with the Committee's own judgment." However, I believe that the final proposal satisfies Dr. Houston's desires. I also think that Dr. Houston has done an exceptionally good job of beginning to rebuild our school system, and that, as a new Superintendent, he deserves our support. We should give him the High School facilities he feels are necessary to meet the demands that will be placed on them in the next 20 years.

Finally, I support the bond referendum because I think the final combination of projects is necessary and required; moreover, the cost is not exorbitant, expecially if one considers how far the renovation goes toward meeting serious needs. If we delay, even for a year or two, inflation and further deterioration will force the community to shoulder a much greater expense than it is being asked to undertake now.

I hope you will join me in supporting the bond issue.

A BOND REFERENDUM ON DECEMBER 13th

Why?

Princeton High School is showing its age. The building is crowded, lacks flexibility, and is deficient in critical areas. Last summer the Board appointed the Bond Referendum Advisory Committee to review the needs of the High School and to consider various proposals for meeting those needs. The 28 Committee members, who represented all sectors of the community, spent over 1000 hours in this review. Their final recommendation, agreed to by the Board, was a no-frills program which the Committee felt would meet the major physical and educational needs of the High School for the next 25 years.

The renovation will cost $4,366,000. Although the Board and Committee realize that such a program requires a substantial commitment from the townspeople, they also recognize the value of the High School to the community. The use of bonding makes it possible to accomplish the necessary renovations with only a modest increase in the current tax rate.

What will the renovation program do?

- Basic safety and maintenance
- Enlarged library
- Improved Phys Ed facilities
- Classroom and laboratory alteration
- Enlarged resource centers
- Auditorium repairs

What will it cost?

The estimated cost of the project is $4,366,000. It will be financed by a 25-year bond which, at current interest rates, will increase each taxpayer's bill by 2¾ percent in the Township and 2½ percent in the Borough.

When is the vote?

Princeton Regional School HIGHLIGHTS

GOURMETS and gourmands will have their chance to add to their cookbook collections and help provide scholarship grants through the Princeton Regional Scholarship Foundation at the same time – so mark Sunday afternoon, December 11 on your calendar now – and come to Valley Road School between 2:00 and 4:00 for a party, a silent art auction and copies of "A Recipe Sampler" for Holiday presents. Production snags forced a postponement of the original date, but this is a cookbook worth waiting for.

MR. O'NEILL'S U.S. History class at PHS had a visitor recently: United States Senator Paul Sarbanes, a friend of the family of one of the class' students.

Senator Sarbanes (D., Maryland) was a graduate of Princeton University and a Rhodes scholar who attended Oxford University in England. Before his election to the Senate in 1976 he was a member of the House of Representatives. There he served as a member of the Judiciary Committee and presented one of the main articles in the Impeachment hearings preceding the retirement of Richard Nixon. In the Senate, Senator Sarbanes serves on the Foreign Affairs Committee; he recently was a member of the legislative group which travelled to Panama to discuss the Canal Zone treaty with the Panamanians. Instead of giving a formal address, Senator Sarbanes involved the class in a question and answer period. The topics ranged from world to domestic affairs; included were South African racial problems, energy legislation and deregulation of natural gas pricing.

MRS. ETHEL HOPKINS of Western Electric in Princeton spoke to math and computer science students at PHS about her experience as a mathematician and her work in different computer industries. She discussed particularly the job opportunities for women trained in mathematics and computer science.

THE PHS MATH team gained second place among eighteen competing teams in the Delaware Valley Math League. Lawrenceville School captured first place.

AN APPLE for the teacher? The PTO of CP not only agrees but also provides apples for the students. The reason? The prevalence of calorie - sugar - chemical laden junk food in many children's diets coupled with the urge to show that foods that are good nutritionally can taste good as well. The first "snack day" was November 30; each classroom received a bag of apples and a sheaf of dittos pointing out the food value of apples contrasted with that of sugary snacks. Throughout the school year, on a monthly basis, the PTO will continue this program, varying their program to reflect seasonal abundance. Each item will be an object lesson in making fresh fruits and vegetables equal good eating, both at school and at home.

JW ENGLISH teachers pored over publications from approximately eighty-five publishers until they found just the text they wanted – a paperback entitled "Basic Verbal Skills for the Middle School" by Burnham and Lederer. Since paperbacks can't take the amount of wear and tear of hardcover editions, the books will be bound (locally, in Princeton) with an attractive deep rust cover. Seventh and eighth graders will receive the new books in mid-December to supplement texts, literature and poetry already in the curriculum. The new book stresses grammar in written and oral work using material from many sources, including the authors' teaching experiences at St. Paul's School, Concord, N.H. Another big plus is that middle school classes will find a companion volume, written for older students, in use now at PHS.

AFFIRMATIVE Action Workshop: The presentation by B'nai B'rith concerning adolescent prejudice given last week in JW will be offered to PHS staff today at the high school. The public may attend this afternoon's program.

University Plans Changes in Management of Its Endowment Fund

Princeton University has announced a major change in the management of its endowment, designating four individuals who will share responsibility for the day-to-day selection of the fund's securities. They are Robert E. Pruyne of Boston, Herbert E. Gernert and John W. Bristol of New York, and Mitchell Milias of Los Angeles.

Princeton's board of trustees, through its finance and investment committees, will continue to set overall policies for the investment of the university's endowment funds. The decision to delegate operational investment authority to individuals belonging to outside firms resulted from the recommendations of a subcommittee of the board which examined the question exhaustively last spring.

Traditionally, management of Princeton's endowment portfolio has rested primarily with the investment committee, a subcommittee of the finance committee of the board. The investment committee, which is considered to have an outstanding record of management performance, will soon lose the services of its longtime chairman, Trustee Harvey Mole, a member of the Princeton Class of 1929, who is due to retire from the board in June.

The forthcoming retirement of Mr. Mole prompted the reexamination of the university's fund management procedures last spring. John C. Beck, a member of Princeton's Class of 1953, has been elected a charter trustee and has succeeded Mr. Mole as chairman of the investment committee. Mr. Beck holds an M.B.A. from Harvard University, is a chartered financial analyst, and is a partner in the New York investment counseling firm of Beck, Mack and Oliver.

91 Considered. In the search for new investment management, recommendations were sought from 17 individuals, some of them university trustees and some not. The investment committee also retained the services of a consulting firm specializing in the search for investment managers.

A total of 91 names of qualified people were suggested by the group of individuals and by the consultants. These names were then carefully analyzed by the consultants and by the trustees; 16 potential investment managers from 11 different firms were subsequently interviewed. The participants in the screening process reached unanimous agreement on the candidates who were to be recommended to the board.

Donald C. Platten, chairman of the trustees' finance committee and a member of the investment committee, explained that "Princeton has about $500 million under management: a primary investment pool of some $460 million – representing mainly endowment funds -- and several smaller accounts, including one account to meet short-term cash needs of the university, and several funds subject to life income agreements."

The primary investment pool, Mr. Platten added, has "grown considerably over the years, through investment management results and through additions of new endowment funds."

Outperformed the Dow. R. Manning Brown, chairman of the executive committee of the Princeton board and a member of the investment committee, said: "When Mr. Mole assumed chairmanship of the investment committee in 1961, the primary pool had a market value of less than $200 million. On a unit value basis, which measures investment performance alone, the primary pool has appreciated by more than 84 percent over the past 15 years.

"By contrast," Mr. Brown continued, "the most popular measure of general stock market performance – the Dow-Jones industrial average – grew by 63 percent over the same period of time.

"Moreover, endowment income received by the university to meet its current expenses has increased an average of 7.5 percent per year during the same 15 years. Indeed, in every year since 1950, the unit income has increased over the preceding year."

Robert E. Pruyne is senior vice president and heads the bond department of Scudder, Stevens and Clark of Boston. He has been selected to manage Princeton University's bond portfolio.

Management of the equity portion of the university's endowment portfolio will be shared by three managers. They are: John W. Bristol, president of John W. Bristol & Company of New York; Mitchell Milias of the Los Angeles investment management firm of Capital Guardian Trust Company; and Herbert E. Gernert, a principal in the firm of Vilas-Fischer Associates, Ltd. of New York.

RECORD EARNINGS SEEN

For Mathematica. Dr. Tibor Fabian, President of Mathematica, Inc., speaking at the stockholders annual meeting, said that "Mathematica once again expects record earnings and revenues for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1978." For the year ended June 30, 1977, the Company reported earnings of $688,000 or 98 cents per share on revenues of $22.7 million.

Dr. Fabian pointed out that, "Mathematica's expansion in the service and product related activities continues, including the marketing of the Company's RAMIS data base management system and the Compu-Instant II lottery ticket and system. "Since this type of business is subject to greater short-term fluctuations than professional consulting and research, it is difficult this early in the year to quantify our expected full year results. However, if business expectation in the product and service oriented activities materialize, an excellent business year is ahead of us."

Shareholders re-elected the directors, including Dr. Fabian, Harold W. Kuhn, professor of Mathematical Economics, Princeton University, and William H. Sword, Managing Director, Wm. Sword & Co. of Princeton.

STUDY COMPLETED

On Methanol As Fuel. The Roger Williams Technical and Economic Services of Princeton and the Charles A. Stokes Consulting Group of Naples, Fla., have issued a three-volume, 980-page study on methanol. The study concludes that methanol will be a major new energy source for industry in the 1980's.

The report finds that the alcohol, which is made from fossil sources, is entering a period of extraordinary change in commercial significance. The authors feel that it will become a major industrial fuel and take a far greater role as a chemical raw material. "We believe that methanol's effect on world power markets will be greater than that of liquefied natural gas or substitute (synthetic) natural gas and will be the biggest change in the fuel picture since the commercialization of natural gas fuel," Williams and Stokes say.

Among the factors cited are that methanol can very likely be produced for less than the $4 per million BTU's price for top quality fuels that the world appears now to accept; that it works in presently available gas turbines; that it can be made close to its source of raw material and shipped more economically and safely than most comparable fuels and that it can be readily made from virtually any carbon-containing compound. The report also notes that the world-wide need for non-polluting gas, in particular low sulfur turbine fuel for electricity generation, is growing.

FUEL OF THE FUTURE? Roger Williams Jr. (left) and Charles A. Stokes look over a copy of their new three-volume report on methanol. They expect methanol will be an essential power fuel in the late 1980's, and have important new chemical uses as well. Story this page.

School Superintendent Paul Houston Finds a New Hat to Wear: As 'Our Man in Washington,' He Is Hunting for Federal Funds

Paul Houston, Princeton's school superintendent, will be on a treasure hunt in Washington, D.C., this week, hoping to bring back a few gold pieces for Princeton's schools.

The superintendent, accompanied by his assistant, Paul Jennings, will prowl the halls of the Office of Education, paying a special visit to a deputy assistant secretary of education who is a close friend of Dr. Houston's.

"You cast your net and try for maybe 15 fish and you're lucky if you pull in three," the superintendent grinned.

Dr. Houston and Mr. Jennings have several ideas in mind.

"The big new thing in Washington right now is 'global education' and we think that has special interest for Princeton," Dr. Houston said. "It means money for inter-cultural studies, and we've got a 'Little United Nations' right here in Princeotn, with the Institute for Advanced Studies, the various natonal groups represented in people who live here, and of course the University."

"Then, there's staff development, teacher-training money, and I think that's really the most exciting for a district like ours, with a largely tenured staff."

Emphasis on the pre-training of teachers, Dr. Houston believes, will shift toward continuing training of teachers already in the classroom, as enrollments fall throughout the nation, and many towns beside Princeton find themselves with older faculty.

Princeton may join with Educational Testing Service and Princeton University to make a joint proposal to Federal officials regarding staff development projects. Such a project, if it goes through, would enable the schools to draw on outside professional resources, the superintendent observed.

Also, it's possible to join with other school systems, for a program in math instruction.

Joint Venture. Princeton has launched a joint effort with South Brunswick, in which middle school students who need shoring up in math would be able to attend a free summer school.

"State money is available for this program, but we're going for Federal money as well," the superintendent said, adding with a smile, "we might as well get back some of the tax money we pay out."

Dr. Houston also points out that the math program serves a dual purpose -- it helps middle school students who need a boost in math, and also gives additional training to people who teach in the program.

Gifted and talented students are the focus of other Federal grants, and there is money also for the arts in education, the superintendent continued.

Support for Enrichment. He has spoken often, in the scant six months since he became superintendent, about his interest in the gifted student and in enrichment, and has expressed his desire to build money for these purposes into school budgets.

Before long -- perhaps after the first of the year -- he'll suggest formation of a committee to look into enrichment programs.

"It may come up with programs for all students, maybe with programs for those identified as gifted. I'd like to have enrichment programs for everyone: it could depend on a student's needs, what that student received."

Whether Federal money for the arts in education is one of the "three fish," nobody knows yet. Nor indeed how the money would be used if it were landed.

"As a former trombone player who lost his lip somewhere along the line, I'm interested in instrumental music," Dr. Houston said.

In budget discussions, he has suggested redistributing money alloted to instrumental music. Don't spend it at the fourth-grade level, he has proposed; instead, buy cheap recorders and teach recorder-playing in large groups to third and fourth-graders.

Have the fifth grade a general introduction, concluding the warm-up elementary years, and then make a solid investment in the sixth grade.

Music Hath Charms. "Instrumental music has potential for everyone," he observed. "If you started with inexpensive large-group instruction, you might get a lot more kids interested and you'd have upgraded enrollment by the time the kids got to the sixth grade. I've had good response from these suggestions. You have to think how best to use limited resources."

And if Federal arts-in-education money came along...

"You have to keep in touch with Washington so that they know who you are, so they don't get the idea we're some rich community. If you maintain close personal contacts lots of times they'll give you a call on their own and suggest you apply for a certain grant."

When a reporter suggested that Dr. Houston, who comes from the south and has lived in Birmingham, might have just the right accent to go treasure-hunting in the Carter administration, the superintendent just smiled. Broadly.

—Katharine H. Bretnall

Cash in Hand

Paul Houston seems to know his way around the Washington labyrinth.

When he was in Birmingham, Ala., as assistant superintendent for program and staff for the development of Birmingham schools, he made more than one trip to Washington seeking Federal funds.

"One time, I came back to Birmingham with half a million," he said the other day.

"Another time, it was just a small grant -- $30,000."

Although he has moved into another school system, many of the officials he talked to in Washington as a Birmingham representative are still there. Waiting, perhaps, for a visit from their old friend.

McCarter's '3 by Wilder' Highly Appealing; First and Last on Evening's Bill Real Gems

Thornton Wilder's one-act plays "The Happy Journey to Trenton and Camden" and "The Long Christmas Dinner" should be seen by everyone who admits to membership in the Family of Man, and one is unlikely to see them more beautifully performed, ever, than in the McCarter Theatre Company's current production.

Both plays have much to say to theatergoers anywhere, at any time, but they are especially appealing here and now.

"Journey" tells of a 1920s motor trip with the Kirby family -- Ma, Pa, Arthur, Caroline – from their home in Newark to visit their married daughter in Camden, a journey that takes them literally through the heart of Princeton even as figuratively it takes them, and us, through the hearts of all American towns of the time, and through some small but significant crises of family life of all times.

"Christmas Dinner" does with time what "Journey" does with space, giving us 90-odd years in the life of an American family in one natural-seeming, non-stop Christmas dinner. As performed by the McCarter Company it is a play for all seasons, but is particularly enjoyable and moving in the present one.

Wilder Returns to McCarter. And of course this is a homecoming for one of the region's illustrious sons: Thornton Wilder (1897-1977) taught and house-mastered at the Lawrenceville School for seven years, added a Princeton M.A. to his Yale B.A., and brought his classic-to-be "Our Town" to McCarter for its 1938 world premiere.

We cite these peripheral virtues of the current production only to encourage attendance. The fact is, the writing, casting, directing, and mounting of the plays deserve far more respectful critical attention. Two of the "3 by Wilder," as the program bills them, are not only greatly enjoyable but have elements of artistic greatness.

Sentimental on one level, they lend themselves to mistreatment as merely sentimental works, which they are not. The size of a building is not determined by the size of its bricks. Wilder, with small concrete details, has constructed large abstractions: works that are near monumental in their ability to move and entertain us, if we bring to them memory or imagination; that is, if we are old or young, and reasonably sensitive.

In his direction, Michael Kahn, McCarter's Producing Director, shows intelligence, imagination, humor, and good taste compatible with Wilder's.

Billboards, Hot Dogs and Weeds. Wilder once told an interviewer, "I am interested in those things that repeat and repeat and repeat in the lives of the millions." In "Journey," young Arthur's marveling at a "Weber & Heilbroner" billboard speaks to us of awe; there are similarly large implications in the family's reactions to roadside hotdogs and flowering weeds.

Caroline's near disgust with most of what Ma says reminds us that growing up was always a fearful business.

At one point God Himself becomes a figurative and troublesome passenger in the Kirby car (which is merely suggested by four chairs). The expressions on Pa's face as the family carries on around him is a marvelous moving picture of fatherhood.

The moment when the Kirbys, following Beulah's written directions, actually find her house, is exciting: the family has come through!, which families sometimes do. The reunion with Beulah, still grieving for her stillborn baby, testifies to the homely ability of love to restore us.

"Journey" could hardly be better cast: Alice Drummond as Ma, Karl Light as Pa, Ricky Paul as Arthur, Diane Franklin as Caroline, Jobeth Williams as Beulah.

James Noble is fine as The Stage Manager (Wilder learned, and borrowed, from these short plays to write "Our Town"), but his attempt to introduce the evening, as a Wilder Stage Manager would, in Wilder-type language, is awkward. Wilder is a hard act to precede.

Through the Years. In "Christmas Dinner," Wilder and the McCarter Company construct a more imposing, if less subtle, edifice with the same homely blocks, with "slivers of white meat" and "twigs encased in ice," and other of the small poetries of life that repeat themselves down through the generations.

This is a magic show in which impossible things happen before our eyes. The Bayards enter through the white-draped portal of birth, become distinct personalities, and – most of them – exit through the one draped in black. And the dinner goes on, with its toasts, its nostalgic recollections, its startling inevitabilities.

Wilder's miraculously selective eye and ear for detail enable him to give familiar human types quirky individualities. If a philosophical pageant is going on in the background, a comedy-drama of clashing real people is enlivening the foreground.

Again, the cast is extraordinarily good, and we were impressed with Kahn's seamless blending of local actors -- Karl Light, Georgine Hall, Diana Crane, George Oliva, Pamela Christian – were imported professionals: Carolyn Coates, James Noble, Nicholas Kepros, Joan Pape, Jobeth Williams, Alice Drummond, Chris Hagen.

Last tn Line. Drummond stands out because as Ermengarde, the spinster schoolteacher, she is the last to exit, and – aided by "a dear little eggnogg" – holds the stage for crucial last moments. The group acts together as if it were a long established comhany.

Between "Journey" and "Dinner" is Wilder's "Queens of France," a flashily theatrical exercise in which a New Orleans lawyer cons some gullible ladies. The other plays are so alive they make us forget theatrics; "Queens" is lifelessly theatrical – but not undiverting; rather like a pretty good half-time show in a game in which Princeton is pulverizing Yale.

A Kahn program note represents the Wilder plays as a fall-back, for economy reasons, from a more ambitious scheduled offering. Not everyone will agree, but we call this a sweet use of adversity.

—William McCleery

Players' Offering of 'Many Moons' Exactly Right for Holiday Season

During this joyous holiday season, Princeton Community Players' production of James Thurber's "Many Moons" offers something for everyone. The posters bill it as a play for children, but certainly that must mean the proverbial children of all ages. Here is entertainment for the whole family.

Thurber's impish wit focuses on the Princess Leonore in a kingdom far away. She is very sad and oh so sickly, and the kingdom's wise men are certain that what her heart desires is just the right kind of raspberry tart. So they search the far corners of the earth for every exotic type you can imagine, and many that you can't. But the Princess turns up her nose at each of them, until the Court Jester, the fool who is in truth the only wise person around, suggests that they should ask the Princess herself what it is that she pines for.

The moon, she says, that's what she really wants. And so her father, the King, calls in his wise men one by one to determine how they can fulfill the beautiful Princess' wish. The suggestions, or rather the excuses, that each makes, and the way in which the Jester repeatedly saves the day, is the source of much of the humor in this delightful one-hour play.

For the adults there is admiration for the Mathematician, who can compute the distance between the horns of a dilemma, and sympathy for the King, who is surrounded by a gaggle of goofy, pretentious buffoons, and a nostalgic trip back into childhood when they are reminded of "what big things you can hide from yourself with your thumb nail."

And for the children there is sheer delight in the Chamberlain who blows his nose louder and stronger than they could blow a horn; and love at first sight for the beautiful Princess; and laughter at the Ladies of the Court who wiggle, wiggle, wiggle as they walk, walk, walk; and incredulity at the mighty little Wizard with the snowy white beard.

Debbie Bellow, of Street Theatre fame, does a fine job as director. Her efforts are greatly enhanced by Dina Blanc's sumptous costumes. They are colorful, practical and the personification of each caricature.

Acting kudos go to Robert Watson as the fumbling, stumbling King; and Rochelle Jacobs as the sprightly, thinking Jester. Others in the cast are Marc Pinto, Wizard; Carrie Jacobus, Cyncia; Beth Ellis, Princess Leonore; Lisa Watson, Royal Nurse; Lisa Patrick, Dancer; Martin Staats, Chamberlain; Mary Ann Ernest, Parretta; Ruth Miale, Mathematician; and Amber Watson, Goldsmith's Daughter.

Take the children! Go! And enjoy! "Many Moons" continues at the PCP PLayhouse, 171 Broadmead, on Saturday at 11 a.m.; and Sunday at 2. Tickets are $1 for children; $2 for adults. For further information and reservations, call 921-6314.

....and "Nutcracker." Synonymous, of course. And this year, promises Ballet Society director Audree Estey, there will be a brand new first act and those new costumes designed by Gloria Woodside.

Joined in a production pas de deux by McCarter Theatre, the Ballet Society will present its "Nutcracker" in McCarter on Tuesday, December 20, and Friday, December 23, at 7 and Wednesday and Thursday, December 21 and 22, at 4:30. The Tschaikowsky ballet will also be danced at the War Memorial in Trenton on Sunday, December 11 at 2:30 p.m.

Mrs. Estey is also proud of the Society's way of getting that first act Christmas tree into the Drosselmeyer home. Her husband, L. Wendell ("Bud") Estey, won't give out any details about the special effects he's worked out because it's part of the world of Christmas surprises.

A cast of 100 young dancers will act out the story of young Clara and her Nutcracker Prince. There will be a new Snowflake pas de deux choreographed by Alexei Yudenichm, former Pennsylvania Ballet soloist, on a grant from the New Jersey State Council on the Arts.

"This year is very important to us," Mrs. Estey says, "we are trying to raise money for a chamber concert group and eventually build it into a professional company. Our students keep going off to the Balanchine and Joffrey and we'd like to keep them here in Princeton."

struments and costumes based on illuminated medieval illustrations, "The Play of Daniel" will be offered to Princeton audiences Tuesday, January 3, by the New York Pro Musica.

The drama is based on the story of the prophet Daniel, and includes the stories of the three children in the fiery furnace, the writing on the wall and the conquest of Babylon by Darius.

Marcel Marceau, surely the artist with the deepest roots in Princeton, will come back "home" for two performances in January at McCarter Theatre.

The mime artist will appear on Thursday and Friday, January 5 and 6, each time at 8 p.m. Tickets are now on sale at the theatre box-office for both M. Marceau and "The Play of Daniel."

FILM FESTIVAL OFFERED

At Montgomery Theater. Starting this Wednesday, a film festival of famous foreign directors will be offered at the Montgomery Theater, Route 206, in the Montgomery Shopping Center. Featured will be films by Fellini, Bergman and Truffaut.

This Wednesday through Sunday, the theater will present Truffaut's "Mississippi Mermaid," starring Jean-Paul Belmondo and Catherine Deneuve. The co-feature will be "The Bride Wore Black," with Jeanne Moreau. Both are in French with English subtitles.

From Monday through next Thursday, Fellini's academy-award winning "8½" with Marcello Mastroianni will be offered together with "Bocaccio 70," a film with three episodes. Fellini directs Anita Ekberg, Luchino Visconti directs Romy Schneider, and Vittorio DeSica directs Sophia Loren. They are in Italian with English subtitles.

Two Bergman films will conclude the festival from December 16-20. "Hour of the Wolf" and "Passions of Anna" both star Liv Ullmann and Max Von Snydow. They are in Swedish with English subtitles.

Schoene Muellerin ("The Miller's Lovely Daughter"), D.795, on the second program of the Princeton University Concerts, Series II, at McCarter Theatre Monday. His accompanist was Dalton Baldwin.

This unabashedly romantic song-cycle simply cannot be performed with even limited success, no matter how finely honed the vocal technique, without an extraordinary belief in the reality of the doomed lover's joys and griefs. The lyrics dwell on details that would interest no listener who did not feel directly addressed by the very person to whom these details mattered immensely.

The brook, in its role as ... guide to distant ... places, ... matchmaker, ... soothsayer, confidante, consoler, and, final, resting place; the color green, first so adored because the miller's daughter says she likes it, then so despised as the color of the hunter who has captured the girl's affections; the blue flowers, the stars and the moon that appear in several of the songs; these all receive detailed depictions and demonstrate the depth of the miller-lad's relation and sensitivity to nature.

Parker conveyed the boy's buoyant spirit, his earnestness and naive trust, his tenderness, jealousy and disillusionment, with compelling immediacy. For him, the music was the vehicle for this portrayal, something to be used toward an objective more difficult than simply producing pleasant sounds.

Personal Involvement. With his warm, resonant voice, accuracy and agility, merely singing the songs would have been enjoyable itself, but Parker's immersion into the role as well as the music resulted in a greatly - enhanced encounter. In fact, his persuasiveness compensated for a small number of unsettled notes in his softer upper range which were sometimes unreliable. So spontaneously did he appear to sing most of the time that one need not hesitate to complain just a bit about some difficult places which, although perfectly sung, fell short of the magic achievement of sounding perfectly easy.

In nearly every song, Parker gave special emphasis to certain important words or lines, by strengthening or sometimes even by lightening his tone. A slight pause on or before a significant word occasionally produced a similar effect. He also knew how to exploit the numerous repetitions of lines Schubert wrote out -- almost by reflex, one is sometimes tempted to suspect, so plentiful they are.

In the song "The Beloved Color," for example, the line "My sweetheart likes hunting so" was sung first bitterly, then sadly, and in "The Curious One," the words "The whole world" were sung the second time with added stress on "whole." Everywhere a word would be slightly held, accented, or softened, or an anxious tone would creep into an exuberant outpouring, or resolute determination into a self-conscious declaration.

Beyond the purely musical, Parker included just the right degree of acting in his performance. Extended arms, smiles, and frowns all helped construct the illusion. Particularly effective were the lad's welcoming gestures to the mill sounds in "Stop!", his enchanted stare in "Morning Greeting" where he speaks for the first time to the miller's daughter, his transfigured vision of the entire heavens in "Rain of Tears," his expression of jealous disdain in "The Hunter," and the brook's admonition to the daughter, with a warning hand, not to let her shadow awaken the poor wanderer.

Fine Accompaniment. Accompanist Baldwin contributed greatly to the performance, playing with as much involvement as Parker sang, adjusting to, following, or preparing for the soloist as required. Melodic snippets were always clear, though the rustling brook - arpeggios were a little blurrier than they needed to be. In "Rain of Tears" he played up the words "twinkled" and "winked," and later, "rain," with staccato notes.

In the last song, he brought out the horncall character of the repeating piano interlude just before the verse about the hunting horn, and softened it dramatically preceding the last verse, starting "Good night, good night." The accompaniment, largely in the lower and middle ranges of the keyboard, never lapsed into muddiness, even where the writing was thick, and the resulting warm sound complemented Parker's voice excellently.

CENTER FOR THE ARTS

ART In Princeton

PHOTOGRAPHY ON VIEW

At University Art Museum. During the early decades of this century, the visual arts were marked by tremendous growth and change. Those in the arts viewed themselves as discoverers and inventors of new modes of expression and regarded themselves as responsible for presenting innovative ways of dealing with existing concepts.

Technical and conceptual searching and change took place in every medium. Those concerned with the visual image sought out new materials as well as creative means of handling traditional media. Conventional forms and subject matter were rejected and replaced with radically different, then often shocking, works that made unusual aesthetic demands upon the viewer.

The dynamic changes that were taking place in the world of painting and sculpture were also being seen in photography. The new medium, then only a half century old, had primarily been used as a form of visual record.

The camera was generally employed as a means of faithfully representing the scene or subject in front of the lens. Alfred Steiglitz, a noted photographer, was the leader in the move to present photography as an art medium. He established the Photo-Secession, which exhibited and published photographs of artistic merit.

Innovative Techniques. Francis J. Brugiere, whose work is now on display at the Princeton University Art Museum, was one of the creative and innovative photographers who became involved with the Photo-Secession. Even in his early years, when the medium was relatively young, Brugiere recognized its creative potential. This exhibit documents his continuing experimentation with the camera and the many creative and innovative techniques that he continued to explore and develop from the beginning of the century until his death in 1945.

It is necessary to view this collection in historical perspective in order to appreciate fully the creative qualities that Brugiere brought to his work. Many of the experimental styles that he helped to develop have since become commonly employed and today take on the aspect of the cliche. Multiple imagery, soft focus, solarized negatives and portraits of the subconscious have all evolved into technical gimmickry. However, when Brugiere created his innovative photographs, they represented new forms and fresh approaches that were yet to be imitated and debased.

Many of the photographs included in this extensive collection deal with repeated forms and multiple imagery. In some, he sought the same abstracted geometric effects as the surface painters of his day, in order to simulate cubist still life.

In others he used the superimposed image to develop pattern and design. One of the most complex and unusual applications of the multiple exposure in the collection is the series of photographs titled "The Way". These representations of emotional states are among the earliest in the history of American photography to manifest an interest in surrealism.

Effective Lighting. Cut paper forms arranged with a light source were another of Brugiere's notable efforts. The shapes were photographed from different perspectives, often with change in the lighting, using soft focus to alter the images. Many of the cut paper photos were used in combination with free verse by Lance Sieveking to create a book about major life crises in which photographs were used as word substitutes.

The exhibition also includes architectural photographs created with multiple exposures, solarized still life and figure studies as well as prints created from painted glass negatives. Also included are letters, documents of his exhibitions and selected original publications. The exhibition was organized by James Enyeart, Executive Director of the Friends of Photography in Carmel, California.

The collection is accompanied by a display of 20th century photography by Brugiere's contemporaries. The exhibit spans the years that Brugiere was producing. Many of the major photographers of five decades are represented exhibiting a range of conceptual and technical works which provide additional perspective for viewing the Brugieres.

This small display is carefully compiled and includes many exquisite prints which illustrate the possibilities of the photograph. Included are works by Man Ray, Moholy-Nagy, Steiglitz, Weston, Kertesz and Cartier-Bresson.

At McCarter Theatre. Juried shows must always be viewed with reservations, particularly those in which the work was selected by a sole juror. Without knowledge of the artistic prejudices and preferences of the judge and without some insight into the nature of the rejected works, the proverbial grain of salt should accompany the viewer.

The current Princeton Art Association Annual Juried Graphics Exhibition is no exception. This competent and generally pleasing selection of prints, drawings and photographs seems to carry with it an aura of personal preference. The collection is consistently conservative in both content and style.

Traditional forms are the rule with very few exceptions. Although a great many media are included, they are represented without exuberant expression. Even the color in the selected works appears almost constrained. There is a great deal of graphic skill on display together with a fair amount of artistic effort. However, the effect of the show is a muted one, which fortunately does allow for a bit of quiet contemplation.

SHOW BY CENTURION

At PDS Gallery. The paintings of Harry Lieberman will be shown at the Anne Reid Art Gallery at Princeton Day School from Friday through December 16.,

Mr. Lieberman is a highly regarded primitive painter who began painting at the age of 78. He has just celebrated his 100th birthday and continues to paint five or six hours a day. He has often been likened to Chagall because of the lyrical quality of his paintings and his use of soft pastel colors.

Many of the paintings are inspired by themes from the Old Testament and from Judaic literature and culture. They are painted in a mixture of innocence and sophistication. Mr. Lieberman's works are in many major collections and galleries throughout the world, including the Hirshorn and the Rockefeller collections.

The Gallery is open to the public from 8:30 to 3:30 Monday through Friday.

WORKS ON VIEW

At Western Electric A selection of sculptures by Christopher (Kit) Raymond, son of Mr. and Mrs. MacPherson Raymond of Cherry Valley Road, are now on exhibit in the gallery of Western Electric on Carter Road.

The exhibit will continue until December 23. It will be open to the public on weekdays from 9 to 4 and on Sundays from 2 to 5.

STUDENTS' WORK SHOWN

At Nassau Street Bank. Thirty-eight students at the Princeton Art Association, Rosedale Road, are exhibiting in a multi-media show at the New Jersey National Bank of Princeton, 194 Nassau Street.

Included are prints, paintings, a few uniquely personal creations and even puppets. The show, which runs through Saturday, is open to the public.

BIGGER BUS SET

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Here's a tough football question ... What major college football team once played ALL its HOME games -- not in its home state -- but in another state? ... The University of Idaho's stadium had a fire in 1969, and in that season, and in 1970, Idaho moved all its home games from Idaho to the town of Pullman, Washington.

And, here's an amazing fact ... Even though the Phoenix Suns of the National Basketball Association out-scored their opponents last season over the whole year, getting more total points than their opponents, they, incredibly, finished in LAST place! ... Phoenix scored 8,603 points last season, while their opponents got only 8,543 against them on the year, but Phoenix still lost 48 games and won only 34 -- setting an unbelievable record.

Do you know who was the youngest man ever to be a head coach in the National Football League? ... Answer is Don Shula, now coach at Miami ... But Shula was just 33 years old when he became coach of the Baltimore Colts in 1963, and set the record as the youngest NFL head coach ever.

I bet you didn't know ... that our $10,000 deductible major medical with a $250,000 limit would cost a man age 40, wife age 38 and two children as little as $140 per year.

There were strong indications this week that Homer Smith, who played both ways for Princeton a quarter-century ago, may be the Tigers' next football coach. Developments could involve the former linebacker and fullback in a delicate balancing act in the event that Army decides to renew his contract and asks him to give his decision before his alma mater is in a position to make an offer.

While it is denied by the athletic department at West Point, Smith says he was told before the 1977 season began that in order to be considered as Army's coach next year, he must produce a winning record and beat Navy. When he achieved a 17-14 triumph over the midshipmen (his first in the four years he has been at Army) to cap a 7-4 record, it apparently made him eligible. Smith said he was walking around with a fountain pen in hand, but ten days after the season had ended, Army officials had not reached a decision in the matter.

Three or four days after Bob Casciola had been told by Flippin that he was welcome to stay at Princeton in a capacity other than football coach, Smith reportedly was in touch with Flippin to indicate interest in being a candidate here. That week ended with a major boost in his personal stock as he produced the elusive victory over favored Navy and, in effect, gave Princeton the possibility of hiring a coach who had achieved a major turnaround in Army's fortunes. In 1974, the cadets were 0 and 10.

No Mystery Guest. To no one's particular surprise, then, Homer Smith, Princeton Class of '54 and still the holder of the Tigers' one-game rushing record of 272 yards, spent much of the day Friday in Princeton. "He was," said one bemused onlooker, "introduced to just about everybody in Jadwin Gym."

During the course of his time here, Smith talked at some length with a number of the players, headed by two members of the search committee, 1978 Co-Captains Greg Bauman and Bob Ehrlich. The day was topped off by dinner at the Flippin home on FitzRandolph Road, a logical ending to the visit for two long-time friends but one that seemed to symbolize Smith's strength in the final decision.

Bauman All-Ivy

Greg Bauman, who will co-captain Princeton's 1978 football team with linebacker Bob Ehrlich, has been named to the All-Eastern Conference offensive unit as a guard.

Bauman had already achieved All-Ivy honors as a junior. A two-year letterman, he has started all 18 games in his varsity career.

Smith just missed playing in the same backfield with the Tigers' greatest tailback, Dick Kazmaier, because senior Russ McNeil was the designated fullback in 1951 and Smith's versatility was put to fine use as a linebacker. He was installed as the fullback the following season (when his 272 yards paced a 41-21 triumph over Harvard) and was there as captain in 1953, when a young tailback by the name of Flippin began to make history of his own.

SPORTS In Princeton

The wide introductions and openly cordial treatment accorded Smith were in some contrast to the visit here earlier last week of Colgate's highly successful coach, Fred Dunlap. "I heard he was here," said one source normally well qualified to know what is going one, "but as far as I'm concerned, it's strictly rumor."

Dunlap whose qualifications in technical skills were amply demonstrated in his team's 17-7 and 31-13 victories in Palmer Stadium the past two seasons, was indeed here to talk to Flippin and player personnel, but no attempt was made to herald his arrival. He is well entrenched at his alma mater as a coach with a two-year 18-3 record who doubles as athletic director, but has indicated that if a choice were involved between an attractive coaching assignment and his present dual role, he would take the former.

Anyone You Know? Of the names that have broken ioto print, Smith and Dunlap are the only ones associated with Division I teams in the Eastern College Athletic Conference, since Yale's Carmen Cozza is not under consideration. Neither is Harold "Tubby" Raymond who has made Delaware such a leading factor in Division II.

Half a dozen other names, all of which would be sure to bring a "who's he?" reaction from even knowledgeable football fans, are reportedly on the list. Whether the Tigers will go with any one of them in a tough recruiting year, and at a time when player dissatisfaction over Casciola's dismissal is high on the record, is doubtful.

For those who think they follow eastern football closely, a timely quiz might ask: Can you identify the following successful coaches--Gene Carpenter, Bill Manlove, Frank Navarro, Frank Maurer, Don Miller and Al Jacks?

Their colleges, in order, are Millersville State, Widener, Wabash, Wittenberg, Trinity and Clarion State. They range in location from Pennsylvania to Ohio and Indiana, and only Navarro, who was dropped after a brief stint at Columbia in the early '70s, rang a bell here.

The University has said that it will accept applications through Saturday of this week, so that no announcement of the final decision is planned before then. It has also given strong indication that much progress has already been made in selection of Casciola's successor by setting December 20 as a deadline for reporting on its choice. The search progress for far less important jobs normally takes a matter of weeks or even months, not merely days, and even though the off-season in football has barely begun, the sooner a solution is reached, the better a foundation will be laid for the winning football Princeton says it has to have.

"It was almost entirely Royce Flippin's decision that Casciola should go. If he thinks Homer Smith is the right man to replace him," one estimate in Jadwin Gym has it, "that's who it will be."

SKATERS ON THE MOVE

After Loss to Northeastern. Denied victory in the final seconds of its game in Baker Rink Saturday with Northeastern, Princeton's hockey team put on its skates and left town again. After facing Penn at Philadelphia Tuesday night (too late for a report in this issue of TOWN TOPICS), the Tigers had meetings on their schedule at Boston College Friday and Providence Sunday, their final action until a post-New Year's tournament in Maine early next month.

Like so many Princeton hockey teams in this decade, the Orange and Black lost to Northeastern despite the fact that it scored six goals. A persistent Husky offense and occasional defensive lapses by the home team cost it seven, but the outcome was in doubt until the final buzzer.

The visitors beat goalie Fred Cherne four times in the first period but freshman Jim Farrell and junior Craig Tresham retaliated for the Tigers, who then drew even on a second period goal by Frank Techar and one in the third by Dave Tweedy. The Tigers' problem was that they were always playing catch-up ball; in the high - scoring game, they never led.

Northeastern took new leads of 5-4, 6-4, and 7-4 as action neared a close. Coach Jim Higgins pulled Cherne with better than a minute to go and the six-man attack produced an unusual two goals.

The first went to Cliff Lawrick--his fourth in as many games--and the Tigers' sixth of the evening to freshman Gary MacLellan. That one came with 29 seconds left but Northeastern managed to hold firm in the remaining time. The victors outshot their hosts, 41 to 36.

Back-to-Back Defeats Jar Tiger Quintet–Villanova Here Next

No one is pushing the panic button, but back-to-back defeats last week for Princeton's basketball team broke a couple of streaks that few teams in the nation could match.

When the Tigers played a miserable game against an ordinary Navy quintet at Annapolis, losing 60 to 57, it was the first time in 14 regular season contests that they had lost. When St. John's edged ahead in the final minute Saturday night to take home a 43-40 decision, the Redmen became the first invaders to win in Jadwin Gym since Rutgers turned the trick in early February of 1976.

Now the Tigers are 1-2, the first time in five years that they have been below the .500 mark. They return to action Thursday at 7 in Madison Square Garden against Fordham, with Rutgers meeting Columbia in the second half of a doubleheader. The Orange and Black will play next in Jadwin Tuesday at 8 with Villanova providing the opposition.

Fordham, like Navy, is a team Princeton should beat. The Rams have dropped three of their first four, and although they led Michigan in the Garden at halftime Saturday, 37-29, were eventually trounced by 77-62. No better than 5-21 a year ago, they have benefitted by losing only one player from that squad but still list 11 sophomores and freshmen on their roster.

Villanova, on the other hand, was 23-10 last winter, one of the setbacks a 77-74 verdict in its game with Princeton in the Palestra. The Wildcats have won their first three, including a tough game away against West Virginia, but the string was expected to end with Tuesday night's road game at Rutgers.

Three starters from last winter's team are gone but Keith Herron, second-team All-East with an average of just under 20 points a game, leads an able quintet this season. Reggie Robinson, a 6-6 forward, and guards Whitey Rigsby and Rory Sparrow are other key players.

40 Percent Inadequate. For some inexplicable reason, the Princeton record book fails to report on team foul shooting percentages through the years, a statistic of considerable interest and one that plays a major part in the outcome of every game. In the absence of such information, it is a valid presumption that the 4-for-10 performance through which the Tigers suffered against St. John's Saturday ranks with the poorest in many years. On the season last winter, for example, they were a fine 77 percent.

Had they been able to convert just six out of 10, they would have won, because the uncontested layup that the Redmen got with four seconds remaining would not have been part of the action. The Tigers would have been leading by a point or two, not pressing for possession and leaving a man unguarded. To make matters worse, their field goal average was also an unsatisfactory 40 percent, and the combination negated a fine defensive effort against a St. John's quintet that was ripe for becoming an upset victim despite its ranking within the nation's top 20.

Princeton controlled much of the early action, moving out to an 11-4 lead with just over five minutes gone and holding the visitors to a pair of field goals in the first 12 minutes with skilled defensive play. The Tigers seemed to have a distinct advantage when St. John's captain, George Johnson was benched after less than six minutes with three personals, and the big freshman center, Wayne McKoy, was withdrawn at the half-way mark in the period.

Home team field goal efforts kept popping outward, however, Bob Roma missed a pair of free throws, and the visitors gradually drew even to leave the floor tied at 21. Princeton foul shooting was 3 for 7 in a tight, low-scoring game, compared to 7 for 8 for the other guys.

The final half was a classic in defensive strategy, with most of the offensive mistakes committed a credit to the team applying the pressure. Until St. John's got its uncontested basket with the clock about to run out, neither team led by more than a field goal.

With 5:18 to go, St. John's Paul Berwanger hit on a short turnaround jumper to give his team a 39-38 lead. Half a minute later, Bill Omelt chenko hit a 17-foot shot from the right side and Princeton went ahead, 40 to 39.

When the Tigers regained possession shortly thereafter, they appeared to be in control, but Rich Rizzuto could not convert when fouled at 1:42, and St. John's took charge. A jumper from 17 feet away by Johnson put the Redmen in front, 41-40. Frank Sowinski drove for the basket with 24 seconds left but was called for charging and when Princeton got the ball again, it had yielded the extra basket and lost the game.

So good was the Tigers' defense, even when in a zone, that no St. John's player made it to double figures. For the Tigers, Roma had a dozen and Sowinski 11. Some of the officiating bordered on the atrocious, but the game was lost by Princeton shooting which was almost that bad itself.

Both shooting ability and, even more surprisingly, their highly-respected defensive skills deserted the Tigers at Annapolis. While they were hitting on a miserable 29 percent of their second-half shots, they watched forward Jack Stumborg of the Navy sink 100 percent of his, a seven-for-seven performance making the upset possible.

Princeton held an eight-point lead as the first half began to draw to a close, and took a 33-27 advantage into the dressing room. But the home team glued a lid on the basket during the intermission, and as the Tigers' accuracy began to peel off, Navy's marksmanship improved steadily. In the final 20 minutes, the middies were clocked at an astonishing 79 percent of their field goal attempts.

Both Sowinski and Roma were in foul trouble early, and both fouled out with the game still within Princeton's reach. Nonetheless, they were the only Princetonians in double figures, Sowinski with 17 and Roma with 14. Tom Young, Roma's 6-11 replacement, showed little during a brief appearance, and Pete Carril replaced him with 6-7 Roger Schmitt.

Trailing by seven (58-51) with 2:15 to go, the Tigers gave it a shot as forward Rich Starsia contributed a basket and Rich Rizzuto and Bob Kleinert a pair of fouls apiece. But Rizzuto fouled Stumborg trying to gain possession with 40 seconds left, and when the midshipman made both ends of a one-and-one, that ended the Orange and Black's 13-game winning streak in regular season play–one that dated back to last January 11.

PHS OPENER MONDAY

On Basketball Court. An interested spectator at the opening game of the Princeton High School basketball game here Monday evening at 7:30 will be Marvin Trotman – the PHS coach.

Trotman doesn't quite know what he has or what he can expect from his young, inexperienced team, which has but one veteran starter returning, playmaker Mike Fuschini. After one scrimmage with New Brunswick Saturday, Trotman's early assessment was that things were "not well."

By the time of the opening tap with visiting Franklin Township Monday, the Little Tigers will have engaged in two more scrimmages with Peddie and East Brunswick. Perhaps then he will know a little more.

Trotman reported that he knows very little about Franklin, which PHS upset last year in its opener at Franklin, 56-47, except that the Warriors will probably be big. Gone are the two big men, 6-9 Jim Pace and 6-7 Gene Brookims, but Trotman added that Franklin still had some tall players on its jayvee squad.

Fuschini, Sapoch Start. Certainly, PHS does not figure to have a height advantage on many opponents this season. Its tallest player is 6-2 Brian McGriff, who will be the probable starting center. Other likely starters will be Jack Sapoch and Fuschini at the guards, and junior Bobby Flippin and sophomore Kevin Robinson at forward.

Fuschini had a 13.4 average last year and is a fine outside shooter. Both he and Sapoch are 5-9, while Robinson and Flippin are just over six feet. The probable sixth man is 5-8 Kim Beasley.

In that first scrimmage with New Brunswick, in which the teams played six periods, Trotman reported that PHS didn't do anything until the sixth period. The scrimmage ended in a tie.

He attributed the failure to get started to nervousness among his young players. "They showed at the end they can play, but with the deficits we have, we are going to have to have that intensity all the time. If we can't give 100 percent all the time, we are going to be in trouble."

As soon as they get some confidence, his team, Trotman predicted, might be able to turn things around. "I've seen some good, little things already, but, as a coach, you are always looking for the bad things, what needs improvement."

PROBABLE STARTER: Sophomore Kevin Robinson is a probable starter at forward as Princeton High School opens its 1977-78 basketball season at home Monday against Franklin Township.

TOUGH ROAD AHEAD

For PDS Basketball Team. Things never get any easier for the Princeton Day basketball team, and that is just the way coach Alan Taback likes it.

In the past few years the Panthers have put together seasons of 20-3, 19-4, and 18-5 last season, while winning the State Championship in the Prep "B" Division four consecutive times. That's been all to the Blue and White's credit, but there comes a time when you have begin to move on to greater challenges.

PDS will still compete in the "B" Division race, but along the way it will replace some of the weaker prep schools with some of the stronger high schools in the area. Taback figures this season's schedule is about four games tougher than last year's. It includes, for example, the Hamilton Tournament over Christmas vacation, which in addition to the host team and PDS will include Steinert and Father Judge, one of the too Philadelphia schools.

Preparing for the stiffer opposition, Taback has plenty of talent to work with. Three starters return from last year's squad, senior co-captains Mike Walters and Andy Sanford and Carl Hill. Walters and Hill will play guard and Sanford, center.

At the forward slots, a pair of 6-3 sophomores Jamie Bartolomie, who saw plenty of action last year and newcomer James Cox, will give Taback good height and speed. Cox was a teammate of Hill's at Trenton Junior Two a couple of years ago.

Taback will have better depth this season than last. Uo from the jayvees are two able reserves, who both will get a lot of playing time, Victor Kuzmicz and Vince Pacino. Tim Murdoch and Randy Shelton, both 6-2 sophomores, will fill in at the forward spot when needed, and a pair of junior guards Chris Price and Mark Cozzaran round out the 11-man squad.

Practice began November 15 and the Panthers have already had five pre-season scrimmages against teams such as Ewing, Chestnut Hill, Lakewood, Pleasantville, Allentown and Bordentown. The first four are strong competition, but PDS was able to hold its own. "We have progressed with each one," Taback reported.

The Blue and White has some big gaps to fill, caused by the graduation of Randy Milville, now playing his basketball across town in Jadwin for the Princeton University freshmen. In addition to his scoring ability, Melville was the team's leading rebounder. He was especially adept at getting the ball off the offensive boards. "We need more scoring from our forwards," Taback commented.

"I think we'll be a little stronger on defense, because the boys have been doing it longer."

PDS opens with Newark Academy this Wednesday at home, and then will compete with a strong field in the Peddie Tournament over the weekend.

PHS FASTER, QUICKER

Says Mat Coach Murray. "I think we'll have one of our better teams," said Princeton High wrestling coach Tom Murray, when asked to assess the Little Tiger chances this year. "We have more speed and quickness than ever before."

PHS compiled a 6-9 dual season mark last year, led by two outstanding wrestlers, Dave Wilson and Jim O'Grady. Wilson returns as captain of the team and will compete in the 141-lb. division. At the end of the regular season last year, he was 14-2-1 and finished third in the NJSIAA District matches.

O'Grady had a super season in the 158-lb. class, winning 17 of 18 matches and allowing only 11 points against him. In the district matches, however, he was upset, 4-1, by North Hunterdon's Mike Tintle, whom he had defeated 8-0 in a dual match earlier in the season. "He'll be tough to replace," said Murray.

Still, Murray has more returning veterans than in previous years. Among them are Bruce Cobb, Matt Wilkinson, Eric Tazelaar, Joel Schulman, Bob Ayling, Gary Carnevale, Dan Miller, Keith Wadsworth, Karim El-Meligi and Wilson. "We have a lot of veterans back," Murray agreed. "A lot will depend upon how fast those up from the jayvee team progress."

Opener Saturday. Princeton will open its season Saturday afternoon at 2:30 when it entertains Lawrenceville School. "I never know what they have," said Murray and this year is no exception. Prior to the opener, PHS will have one scrimmage with Hun School.

Fixtures in the lineup include Wilkinson at 108 pounds, Wilson at 141, Wadsworth at 170, and El-Meligi at 188. A standout performer as a freshman, Wilkinson was injured last year but Murray reports that he looks ready now. "He should be one of the best," he said

Cobb at 101 Pounds. At 101 pounds, Bruce Cobb, who wrestled last year as a freshman at 108, is the leading contender. He will be pressed by another sophomore, Eric Schwartz.

Vying for the 115-lb. berth are sophomore John Tazelaar, up from the jayvee squad, and freshman Tony Cadeno. "Tony is good but inexperienced. He has everything else," commented Murray.

THE BROTHERS TAZELAAR: Senior Eric Tazelaar (left) will be the probable 122-lb. wrestler for Princeton High School this season, while brother John, a sophomore, is a candidate for the 115-lb. division.

At 122 is Eric Tazelaar, a veteran and an enigma to Murray. "I thought he would do better than what he gave me last year," said Murray. "Maybe this year he'll do it." A senior, Tazelaar has the potential to be an outstanding wrestler.

One thing is keeping veteran Joel Schulman from competing in the 129-lb. division: he still has his ankle in a cast from a tennis injury. "I expect a lot out of him," said Murray. Until Schulman is healthy, sophomore Rob Schmidt, a transfer from Illinois and a good prospect, will probably get the nod.

Battle at 135 Pounds. A heated battle shapes up for the right to wrestle at 135 pounds. Contenders are senior Bob Ayling, who has had varsity experience; junior John Lowrance, senior Brian Trubee, a transfer from Princeton Day School and rated by Murray as a "strong contender," and freshman Brent Robinson, younger brother of former PHS standout Dave Robinson, who is now wrestling at Indiana University. "He's going to be a good one," predicted Murray.

Glenn Craig is a backup to Wilson at 141 but both 148 and 158 are wide open. In the former class are Gary Carnevale, Fred Toto and Dan Miller -- all of whom has had some varsity experience -- and Mike Santoro. Carnevale, Toto and Santoro are all juniors.

At 158 are Tim Byrne, Luciano Procaccini and Carnevale. "There will be some jockeying around in these divisions," Murray said.

In the last few years, when the outcome of a close match hung on the results of the heavyweight class, PHS was out of luck: it hasn't had a strong heavyweight. This year, 243-pound Mike Henninger, a senior, and 214-pound Percy Randall, a sophomore, are the two leading contenders.

AWARDS PRESENTED

To Hun Athletes. Coaches awards in football, soccer, cross country, girls' tennis and field hockey were presented last week to seven Hun School students at the school's annual fall sports banquet. Bill Muse, Princeton University soccer coach, was the guest speaker.

Coaches awards to those from this area went to Bob Cronin of Princeton in football and in girls' tennis to Dawn Buxton of Lawrenceville.

The Peugeot Diesel: An economy car for the self-indulgent.

Our Peugeot Diesel has much the same headroom and legroom as you'd find in a full-size luxury car. It comes with luxuries like power-assisted rack and pinion steering, four-wheel power disc brakes, fully-reclining front bucket seats, two-stage metallic paint, a sliding sunroof, and four-wheel independent suspension for a smooth, stable ride—all as standard equipment. And now an optional three-speed automatic transmission.

But this incredibly luxurious car also gives you the economy of a diesel engine. You won't need any tune-ups. Just change the oil and filter by the book.

You won't need many fill-ups, either, because the Peugeot Diesel gets 35 mpg highway and 28 mpg city, according to EPA estimates.* And to top it off, diesel fuel nationally averages about 9¢ less per gallon than gasoline.†

So come in for a test drive. Because with a Peugeot Diesel, you can indulge yourself. And tell your friends you're just being practical.

Every year the Edie Raser Memorial is presented to a deserving junior player who exhibits potential to participate in the Community Program's Advanced Training Group. Anyone interested in this scholarship should fill out an application with the Youth Tennis Foundation, 71 University Place.

Currently, the Tennis Office is reviewing applications for the Sandy Kucks Memorial, which is available during any session of the year. Eligibility is limited only by financial need. Those interested should contact the Tennis Office or call 924-4343.

KEYPORT OPENING FOE

For West Windsor Wrestlers. "They call me the Pete Carril of wrestling. I make no promises; I'm not one to predict records."

WE'RE NUMBER ONE: That's the feeling of members of the undefeated Princeton Day Soccer team after it ended its first undefeated season with 14 victories and two ties (Lawrenceville and Pingry). (Front row, from left) Jeff Hudgins, manager; Steve Cragg, John Brett-Smith, co-captains Johnny Rodgers, Andy Sanford and Mike Walters, Evan Press, Jeff Patterson, Jay Nusblatt and Ralph Ross. (Back row) Larry Pierson, Joe Lapsley, Jeff Johnson, Jimmy Burke, John Sweeney, Steve Pagano, Doug Fine, Jono Rush, Chris Bundy, Steve Rowland, Geoff George, Tony Dell, Wells Coalfleet, Dave McCord, Tom Gates and Tom DeVito, coach.

The comparison of Ken Bernabe, West Windsor High School wrestling coach, to Carril is an apt one. For despite all the disclaimers, both are winners.

Last year, Bernabe guided the Pirates to the Colonial Valley League championship; they were undefeated in league competition and had a 13-3 mark overall. West Windsor was ranked tenth in Region 5, which includes such powerhouses as Hunterdon Central, North Hunterdon and Edison and produced three state champions. Not bad for a coach starting his fifth year—the same number that West Windsor has been in existence.

very happy with," said Bernabe. That tradition will continue when West Windsor opens its new season Saturday at 1 when it entertains Keyport. The 16-match schedule, which includes both Hunterdon schools and Jackson Township, "is one of the toughest in the state for a Group 1 school," commented Bernabe.

Seven Starters Lost. He loses seven starters through graduation–Elmer Duncan, Chris Holcombe, Dodd Johnson, Trey Peck, Scott Peet, Ernie Rich and Dave Stager--but has six veterans returning to form a solid nucleous. Replacements will come from a fine jayvee team that finished 14-1-1 and from a 7-1 sophomore/freshman team.

Returning are John Houtenville at 129 pounds, a two-time Mercer County champion; Mark Edenfield at 115 pounds, Brian Fahey at 108, Tim Lynch at 122, Scott Stebbins, 148, and Bill Andrews, 170. All are seniors except Fahey, who is a junior, and Stebbins, a sophomore. Stebbins, a 188-pound wrestler last year, astounded Bernabe and everyone else by coming in at 148 this season.

Bernabe reported that he has a selection of candidates that have looked good in scrimmages, one a triangular affair involving St. Joseph from Toms River and Bridgewater Raritan West. "We have some who will be challenging established people, which is a good sign," he said.

Among them and their weight classes are senior John Cummings, 135; senior Darren Rash, 141; sophomore Gary Laco, 148; junior Ralph Barletta, the Pirate football quarterback this fall, and sophomore David Zinsmeister who will battle it out for the 158-lb. berth; senior Peter Heck, 170, and junior heavyweight Tim Gunkel.

The opening 101-lb. class has been a disaster for WW the past few seasons. Bernabe is hoping he has solved that with either sophomore Wally McIntyre or Phil Jordi. Sophomore Barry Eiker will challenge at 108 pounds, freshman Bob Cochis at 115, and two juniors, Fred Peck and Guy Blelloch at 122. A transfer student, Peter Feng, a junior, will compete at 129 or 135 pounds. "We're at full-strength now," said Bernabe, alluding to the return of the WW football players on the squad who had to miss the first weeks of practice when WW qualified for the state Group 1 football competition. "The main thing we want to do is get the team in top condition and establish our weights early." He attributed much of WW's success last year to the fact that everyone competed in the same weight class all season.

New Coach Added. Aiding Bernabe are his assistant coach, Paul Glass, who will handle the jayvees and freshmen, and his new assistant Craig Savitsky, who will work with the seventh and eighth graders and varsity.

The addition of Savitsky is a big plus. He is a former 150-pound all-American wrestler from Lycoming College in Pennsylvania and a two-time Middle Atlantic Conference champion

WINTER PROGRAM SET

For Soccer. The Princeton Soccer Club has announced plans to hold a winter indoor program beginning January 14 and running eight consecutive Saturdays through March 4. It will be open to boys and girls, 6 - 18, and will be held in the gymnasiums of Princeton Day and Stuart Country Day schools. Participanta will be separated by age and ability and will receive instruction in skills, tactics and principles of play. Each session will be one and one-half hours.

The winter indoor program is the only one of its kind in Mercer County. One of its special features is the individual attention and instruction provided by experienced coaches, including former American Soccer League star Ciro Baldino and Princeton University captain Frank Sharry.

Formal registration will be held Saturday, December 10, from 9 to noon at Baker Rink on the campus of Princeton University. Those who have participated previously will receive information sheets and applications by mail. Those seeking further information should write The Princeton Soccer Club, P.O. Box 257, Princeton or phone 737 - 1675.

TENNIS AWARD WON

By Princeton Junction Girl. The annual Middle States Tennis Association meeting, held last week in Pittsburgh, was attended by Eve Kraft and John Zorzi of the Princeton Community Tennis Program.

Highlighting the meeting for Princeton was the presentation of the "Most Improved Player" award to Kirsten Beske of Princeton Junction. Kirsten, who has been a student in the Community Tennis Program's advanced training group for the last two years, was ranked no. 8 in the girls 12 and under category. She accepted her award in person.

Jay Lapidus was honored by the Middle States with a lifetime membership to the United States Tennis Association. A Princeton resident, Jay is currently no. 1 on the Princeton University tennis team and is the Eastern Collegiate Tennis Champion.

REGISTRATION LISTED

For Men's Basketball, Paddle Tennis. The Princeton Recreation Department has announced that it will start a men's basketball league in early January. Practice sessions for interested teams have already begun at Princeton High School.

Team representatives who did not attend the first organizational meeting should call the recreation department at 921-9480 for further information. Men who wish to play in the league may also contact the recreation office so names may be given to the team representatives. The deadline for team rosters and fees is December 23.

In addition, the recreation office is accepting registrations for the second session of the couples paddle tennis league.

Deadline for registering for the session, which begins January 8 and runs through February, is December 23. It will be on a first-come, first-served basis.

Also featured is a copy of the first children's book printed in Princeton, "The History of Henry Milner, a Little Boy Who Was Not Brought Up According to the Fashions of This World," by Mrs. Sherwood. This fragile volume was printed by David A. Borrenstein, Princeton's first permanent printer, in 1827.

In addition there are early illustrated children's books, including the first illustrated children's book printed in Princeton, "A Plain and Easy Catechism, Suitable for Children of a Tender Age," by a Lady of New Jersey. Also included are toy books of the 1830's, as well as several New England Primers published in Trenton and Newark. The books in the exhibition, which will continue into January, are from the collection of Joseph J. Felcone, a trustee of the Society.

EXCURSION PLANNED

To Youth Theatre. In anticipation of organzing a children's and young adult's theatre group, Community House is sponsoring a trip to the Billy Holiday Little Folks Theatre in Brooklyn. This theatre composed of youth between 3 and 12, who are trained in acting and speech workshops during the year. Each December the finished products of these workshops are performed on stage.

Community House is planning to attend the production of the Bubble Gum Players Saturday, December 17. After the performance, members and their guests have been invited backstage to meet the participants in the Theatre Group and their instructors.

Community House is hoping to attract a large number of Princeton youth. A bus will leave the Paul Robeson Cultural Arts Center, 102 Witherspoon Street at 12:30. The cost of $3.50 per child includes the ticket and transportation. Special discount rates are available for families with more than two children.

All youth and parents interested in attending this trip must speak with a Community House staff member by Sunday. For further information call 924-6047 or drop by 102 Witherspoon Street.
